60 Lost In Ship Sinking

Tanker Explodes In Mediterranean

TUNIS (AP) — The 7,129-ton Scottish tanker Clan Keith exploded and sank in the storm-tossed Mediterranean off the north Tunisian coast early today and only eight of her 68 European officers and Pakistani crew members were known to have survived.

"We have little hope for the others," said the Tunis radio co-ordinating centre. It said eight men were plucked alive from the heavy seas and that one rescue vessel radioed that she recovered "two bodies, their clothes torn and faces battered."

Several ships in the area reported finding debris from the Clan Keith, including a heavily damaged lifeboat.

Five rescue vessels of the French naval base at Bizerte criss-crossed the choppy waters north of the island of Galite where the explosion occurred. British warships sailed from Malta to join the search for possible additional survivors.

CAPTAIN SURVIVES

The ship's owners reported the survivors included the Clan Keith skipper, Capt. Pitts Jackson.

The Tunis radio centre said five of the survivors were picked up by the British freighter Durham Trader.

Radio messages intercepted in Tunis said the Clan Keith exploded about midnight and sank in several minutes. A storm had battered the North African coast during the night.

The 19-year-old ship had been chartered to the British India Company and had a crew of 21 Europeans and 47 Pakistanis, her owners, Clan Line Steamers of Glasgow, announced.

'Biblical Deluge' Hits Athens

ATHENS (AP) — Torrential rains, hail and hurricane-force winds lashed the Athens area for four hours early today, leaving behind 34 dead, at least 50 missing, 300 injured and 3,000 homeless.

The storm, the worst in memory, crumbled houses and turned streets into rivers more than eight feet deep. Hall stones as big as golf balls added to the havoc.

The storm broke about 3 a.m. and left floods that stranded thousands of persons in cars and on commuter trains as they tried to go to work.

"A biblical deluge," said one senior police officer directing rescue operations.

The interior ministry said 700 houses were damaged and most were left uninhabitable.

Hundreds of houses and shops were flooded in the Athens area. Many of the dead were drowned by floods that poured through their ground-floor bedrooms.

Many of the victims were in houses that collapsed under the force of the torrential rains and powerful winds.

Hundreds were marooned in cars and buses as water eight feet deep was reported in some places.

Five Dead in Ecuador As Army Checks Riot

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP) — Soldiers, tanks and armored cars swept into the streets of Guayaquil today to combat anti-government rioters. There were five reported dead by early afternoon.

Milk Talks Resumed

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations resumed shortly before noon today in another effort to end New York City area's milk drought, caused by a strike of teamsters which began 13 days ago.

Motorist Killed

FORT ST. JOHN (CP) — Richard Ordell, 37, of Fort St. John was killed early today near the Peace River bridge when his car struck a guard rail and plunged down a 50-foot embankment.

Locomotives Sold

OTTAWA (UPI) — Argentina today signed an agreement to buy 70 diesel electric locomotives values at $14 million from Canada. The locomotives will be supplied by Montreal Locomotive Works Limited.

Fallout Warning

TOKYO (UPI) — The central meteorological agency cautioned Japanese today to cover open wells and filter rain and river water used for drinking as the result of a record level of radioactive fallout from Soviet nuclear tests.

The agency said there was no immediate danger to health but that simple precautions should be taken in case the level of fallout continued high.

Brush Fire Raging Near Stars' Homes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A dreaded "fire storm" swept down the slope of the Hollywood Hills into an exclusive residential area today, setting half a dozen or more homes ablaze.

The flames broke out this morning near the edge of the swank Belair district, where many movie stars live.

Feeding on dry brush and fanned by hot desert winds, the fire suddenly converted itself into a fire storm—a cyclonic inferno in which intense heat creates its own fierce winds.

"Send help," battalion chief Oliver Howard radioed from the centre of the blaze in Stone Canyon.

Whether the homes were totally destroyed, or merely damaged, was not known immediately.

The scene was the city's western portion, in mountains separating Los Angeles from the San Fernando Valley.

Such celebrities as Jack Lemmon, Marlon Brando, Maureen O'Hara, Greer Garson, Steve Cochran reside there.

NO DECISION ON QUEEN'S GHANA VISIT

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today it still has to be decided whether Queen Elizabeth will keep her engagement to visit Ghana.

Commonwealth Relations Secretary Duncan Sandys flew to Accra during the weekend to assess the situation from the standpoint of the Queen's personal safety after bombs were exploded under the Ghana independence arch and a statue of President Kwame Nkrumah.

"I am still awaiting a report from him (Sandys)," Macmillan told the House of Commons in response to questions.

At the moment, the Queen was still scheduled to leave for Ghana Thursday.

Jeremy Thorpe, a Liberal, asked for an assurance "that as far as the British government is concerned the security of the Queen is of paramount importance and must take priority over any political considerations."

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia has claimed "a full moral right" to test the same number of nuclear bombs as have already been exploded by the United States, Britain and France.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the Soviet Union had set off 55 announced tests prior to the present series, in which there have been 31, making a total of 86. The U.S. total, including four in the current under-

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

There's more than one way to work your way through college.

A "novel one" has been recently discovered by a Victoria College student.

Over in France for the summer, he acquired a paperback copy of Tropic of Cancer, and another of its brother, Tropic of Capricorn.

He rents them out to fellow knowledge-seekers at the rate of one dollar (cash) per day.

He's doing a land office business, presumably because students wish to keep up with the tropics of the day.

Most-talked-about item in the new Imperial Motel is architect Fred Thornton Hollingsworth's step-down Japanese bath. A couple of Toronto businessmen, first occupants, immediately dubbed it "the deep try." Builder George Wheaton says they have plans to retrieve any patron who becomes too deeply immersed: "We'll install a Jolly Jumper."

Second-most-talked-about item in the establishment is the curtain, made entirely of glass beads, which screens the swimming pool from the restaurant and bar. This was the inspiration of designer Earle Morrison, a former Victorian, who also created the Oriental-style furniture which is featured in the rooms.

A large cardboard sign leaning against the plaque of the Sloan Memorial tree, near Oak Bay golf course, Sunday proclaimed: "THE GREAT PUMPKIN WAS HERE."

Manager R. W. Olson of the Shop-Easy store on Oak Bay Avenue couldn't find anything better to exhibit his Halloween candy in than an eight-gallon yellow plastic garbage can. It may have been an incongruous combination but it paid off. No one knows whether customer Don Napier, of 1344 Victoria, intended to buy candy or a garbage can when he first came in, but he must have been desperate because he purchased the whole display.

Some of our local winos have been making their headquarters in the ruins of an old house now being torn down at 857 Superior, near Douglas.

Quantities of wine bottles have been found in the wreck of the once-stately living room and the big fireplace has been used as a receptacle for a variety of garbage.

The winos must have been in ghostly company; for the house was built by a Speaker of the B.C. Legislature in the late 1890s and acquired by city barrister John Patmore Walls in 1907.

A little boy may forget his mummy but you can be sure he won't forget his tummy.

This axiom proved true one night last week when employees of Paul's Restaurant reported to police that a little shaver was ensconced in their premises.

The hour being 1:35 a.m., small fry was sent home, but not before being well fed.

The Royal Jubilee Hospital is supposed to be "tops" for its progressive ideas and up-to-date equipment.

But Barbara Brethour, working in the electrocardiograph room, isn't so sure now.

The other day a man who identified himself as an American doctor asked to borrow her phone, attached a little gadget to the receiver, and proceeded to make an electrocardiograph of one of his patients in San Diego, nearly 1,200 miles away.

Dr. David Turner, back on the job this week in the provincial department of recreation and conservation after two months' absence, took one look at his desk and quipped: "I should have stayed away."

Vancouver public relations man Doug Smith, well known to Canadian Legionnaires in this area, has just produced a new book called "Memoirs of an Old Sweat." It's a lively pot-pourri of wartime yarns that proves all over again that the happy times linger in memory while the unpleasant ones are put aside.

Doug had a difficult time interesting publishers in his memoirs—so he published the book himself. Ex-servicemen will be glad that he did.

Sports fan, golfer, and auto salesman Billy Newcombe is getting a glimpse of big-city life via a unique assignment. A Victoria couple, who spend a lot of time in New York City, asked Billy to pick them up a new car in Detroit, drive it to New York, and then drive their old car back to the Coast. Billy was happy to oblige.

Jock Sneddon, the amiable Scottish head of Victoria Press' composing room, racked up another "first" recently when he took the lesson at his beloved Centennial Church. "Microphones do something to Scots," Jock told friends. "My wife said she couldn't understand a wu-rrd."

A hasty call to an up-town bank resulted in a false alarm one day for Constables Ed Hardy and George Buckle. The bank alarm got some bugs in it and a robbery call buzzed in the cop shop.

In speed that would have made Harry Jerome proud, the two constables and a couple of avid reporters were on the scene, but, alas, no robbery.

But Constable Hardy, erstwhile promoter that he is, took quick advantage of the situation, and before the reporters could flee the premises, had sold one and all tickets on a turkey raffle. . . . I wonder if they're hot . . .

ECM Nations Delay Reply on UK Bid

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The six European Common Market charter members have failed to agree on a joint reply to Britain's membership application, reliable diplomatic sources said today.

Ministers of "The Six"—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—met here Wednesday and Thursday with Edward Heath, lord privy seal and European affairs expert in the British government.

"The Six" were to give their first reply to Britain's membership request which Heath delivered formally at a one-day meeting in Paris Oct. 10. Senior officials of "The Six" tried here Friday and Saturday to draft a joint reply.

Reliable sources said they were split on this, with West Germany favoring a long, detailed statement, while the French want only a broad declaration in general terms in which "The Six" would not lay their cards on the table at once.

Ministers of "The Six" will seek again Tuesday morning to iron out their disagreement and to put together a common front before meeting with Heath Wednesday.

Ontario Mayor Dials His Phone To Get Scurrah

Mayor Hewitt of North Bay, Ontario, made history Saturday by dialing a call to Mayor Percy Scurrah at Victoria city hall—about 2,300 miles away.

This call marked the opening of a new exchange at North Bay from which long-distance calls can be made across Canada by dialing the number.

"Mayor Hewitt told me it took him only a few seconds to dial my number and then he was through to the city hall," Mayor Scurrah said.

"We chatted for several minutes and exchanged good wishes."

There's No Mystery To High Protein Diet

How can you secure your "essentials of nutrition" in an age of processed foods? By putting first things first, where they belong.

Which means that foods rich in essential proteins should come first on your list.

There is no mystery to planning your high protein, feeling young again way of eating. Nor do you have to upset the family food budget. But you must use wise choice in shopping—and follow these important basic rules:

Increase your daily protein intake to at least 150 to 165 grams (more if you've been ill, are planning a reducing diet or indulge in strenuous physical activities.)

Limit the starches and sugars to natural carbohydrates found in vitamin and mineral-rich fruits, vegetables, honey, unrefined molasses, whole grains and seed cereals.

RULE OF THUMB GUIDE

The following charts are prepared to give you a rule-of-thumb guide as to the adequacy or inadequacy of each day's meals from the standpoint of how many grams of protein are consumed.

First, I shall list the animal proteins, that is, the high grade or complete proteins; then the incomplete or vegetable proteins.

At least 50 to 75 per cent of your total daily protein consumption should be selected from animal proteins.

The remainder of your daily protein intake may come from vegetable sources.

TONY BACK TO WORK; MOTHER, BABY 'WELL'

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret's husband, Lord Snowdon, went back to work today, three days after his wife gave birth to his son and heir.

The former Antony Armstrong-Jones has an unpaid post at London's Council of Industrial Design as an adviser on display technique.

Meanwhile, the princess and her son were reported to be "progressing very well."

Margaret was up and about again today. She also got up for a while Sunday.

The princess, who had her baby at her mother's London home, Clarence House, will remain there this week.

Canadian Reds Split On Soviet Testing

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's top RCMP officer said today he understands that Russian nuclear testing and the discarding of Stalin are "causing some considerable controversy" in the ranks of the Communist party of Canada.

RCMP Commissioner G. W. Harvison made the statement in a speech today to the Canadian Club of Toronto.

Commissioner Harvison said three members of the Canadian Communist party have been in Moscow for the high-level Soviet meetings of recent weeks.

He identified them as Tim Buck, leader of the Communist party in Canada; Leslie Morris, who is to succeed Mr. Buck, and the Moscow representative of the Communist Canadian Tribune.

He also said the party in Canada, "working under the direction of Moscow and in concert with Communist parties in other countries around the world, can and will do a great deal toward offsetting efforts to bring understanding among the free nations of the world."

TROOPS PATROL BUENOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — More than 20,000 troops and police began patrolling this Argentine capital today in the face of a three-day general strike called for midnight by the powerful Central Labor Federation.

Troops took up positions at such strategic points as telephone exchanges, radio stations, power plants and government buildings. Helicopters hovered over the city.

No incidents were reported.

The government stepped up efforts to head off the general strike called in support of striking railway workers. It issued a "requisition" order by which all railway workers could be forced by police to report to their jobs. Some locomotive drivers showed up for work this morning, but authorities refused to say whether they did so voluntarily.

Management personnel manned several emergency trains to bring Buenos Aires commuters to work.

President Arturo Frondizi described the situation as chaotic in a radio-television address to the nation Sunday night.

About 350 persons have been jailed since railway men walked off the job eight days ago in protest of government plans to return some auxiliary

The Effluent Society

CANADIANS, WHO HAVE realized only recently that many of their main resources and natural assets are not nearly as inexhaustible as some pioneers thought, have received another sharp warning.

They have been told that they are losing one of the essentials of life—clean, fresh water—at惊人的 speed.

In some parts of the country pollution has destroyed fine streams and lakes, has made their waters unfit, without expensive treatment, for human consumption.

Sewage and industrial waste have been dumped with shocking results into many formerly potable bodies of water. Pesticide sprays in forest and orchard areas have filtered through streamlets into rivers to cause further destructive contamination.

Science can remedy this up to a point. But the remedy is costly in the extreme. Purification and treatment of polluted water comes high and the product, often laden with chemical, is a far cry from the sweet, clear, safe water of the original stream.

The costs of pollution mount as the economic loss of fish, wild life and some vegetation is computed. Beyond this is the intangible cost of destroyed amenities. The lovely waterside becomes unlovely when man-made pollution flows by, or rests in backwaters and in silt. Healthy recreation, swimming and fishing, lose their appeal.

Both in hard dollars and in vanishing attractions which cannot be measured in cash, the price of contamination is high.

The more severe cases of destroyed streams and lakes are found mainly in the denser, more industrialized population centres of eastern Canada. They extend westward to Winnipeg, where the use of the two rivers joining there has been greatly lowered by the wastes that have gone into them.

In British Columbia the pollution problem is less serious, though a definite cause for concern in certain regions. Both Victoria and Vancouver have lost the use of popular beaches because sewage has created a health danger on them from time to time. Duncan, moreover, faced and took measures to overcome risks to an adjacent Indian reserve where residents once brought water in buckets from the river. In other areas spot contamination has occurred when industrial waste was borne downstream.

This condition can be remedied, once it is recognized. Moreover, recognition is being given to the question in important places.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker about a year ago declared pollution of Canada's rivers and streams was "one of the most potentially dangerous threats to our whole economy." And in March this year the federal government announced a vote of $100 million to help cure the condition where it exists. The legislation makes provision for loans up to 66 per cent of the construction costs of remedial installations and a gift of 25 per cent of this amount to municipalities which finish such works before March 31, 1963.

Mr. Diefenbaker and his government deserve full marks for this tangible interest and willingness to help solve a growing problem. So do those municipalities which are taking advantage of the federal government's concession.

But the fact remains that, valuable and essential as it may be to correct conditions in various parts of the nation, correction can never be as effective, or as inexpensive as prevention.

In British Columbia attention has been drawn to pollution in several places—pollution which at present is usually more irritating than excessively dangerous. Unchecked, the condition will continue to grow and become a greater hazard.

Surely it is more economic and saner to establish satisfactory sewage treatment and disposal plants than to wait until pollution has laid waste much of our water supply.

We cannot afford to sit idly by and hope that contamination will disappear without any action on man's part. Higher populations create greater sewer problems, and industrial expansion carries with it the threat of waste dumped into streams and lakes.

Of course it costs money to provide the treatment facilities required to render sewage and waste innocuous. It will cost a great deal more if they are allowed to destroy resources, among them perhaps the most precious and indispensable resource known to man, his fresh water.

The Solemn Pledge

THE TAX POLICIES OF MANITOBA are solely the business of its government, legislature and people. But they must interest British Columbia just the same.

In fighting the election of 1959, Premier Roblin made certain promises. Among other things he said: "Now they (the Liberals) are saying taxes will have to go up" under Mr. Roblin's Conservative government. "They're wrong on that, too," he declared.

Later he added on television: "Don't be frightened away from progressive government in Manitoba by this Liberal talk of new taxes. I give you my solemn pledge that the budget is balanced, that there will be no increase in taxes."

On that solemn pledge the government won the election. A few days ago, however, it asked the legislature to increase Manitoba's taxes by $7 million a year, a very large sum in the provincial budget.

It is abundantly clear that the solemn pledge of 1959 has been repudiated. Unable to finance his tax-free "progressive government" on existing taxes, Mr. Roblin is raising them.

Mr. Bennett says he has no intention of raising British Columbia's income and corporation taxes, as he is free to do under the new federal-provincial tax formula. He, too, has given a solemn pledge for the future. We hope it is more reliable than Mr. Roblin's.

Take It From an Old Pro

WALTER (BABE) PRATT, AN old pro if hockey ever produced one, has some interesting and sound views on the kind of team Canada should send on international tours.

"The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association should be sending junior teams overseas to see how the European junior system compares with our own," he says. "I think an all-star junior squad would do a better job than a bunch of old pros."

He thinks the type of team we are now sponsoring on such tours is harming Canada's reputation. If the reports that come back on crowd reaction to Canadian teams on European ice is any criterion, his view seems justified.

There is nothing gentle in the apparent hypocrisy of "amateur" hockey as Canada has played it in Olympic and European Games during

New York Times Going West

THAT splendid newspaper, the New York Times, plans to publish a daily western edition in Los Angeles, beginning late next year.

This marks another important development by which certain major American newspapers are producing simultaneous editions in various parts of the world, far afield from the publishing companies' point of origin.

The purpose is to speed the New York Times' international and major political news, along with comment and certain other features, to people who appreciate the authority with which the paper speaks, but who now must wait some time for its mailed delivery.

The gesture, supporters of the New York Times might argue, varies an injunction attributed to a distinguished American newspaper personality: "Go West old man, and help the country grow up."

Is There a Pill for What Ails Us?

THEY'RE speculating now that the Russians aren't afraid of the fallout they're creating because they've all been provided with pills that render them immune to radioactivity. That's a pretty far-fetched one, at first hearing, but it may well be that something along that line will be perfected. It may well be that something along that line will HAVE to be perfected. It would give any nation a good lead over all the others to get that protection against the new 1960's form of aggression—genocide by inadvertence.

It could be that the nuclear war will come about, not because one country has launched a sudden missile attack on the other, but because a nation will have reached the limit of tolerance for continued radiation poisoning from another.

While the offending nation protests its innocence and its need to carry out nuclear "tests," the victim nation will come about its cancer rate soaring, its leukemia toll rising, its incidence of monster births getting out of hand and its people sickening and dying under the enemy's rain of death.

The diplomatic protests will fly back and forth, the appeals to the United Nations, the World Court and other agencies will be made, and when all else fails, the victim nation will decide: It's now or never. We're being destroyed with never a foreign foot set across our borders. Launch the bombs and put an end to this silent, unseen aggression.

Mr. Khrushchev threatens to continue with further nuclear tests if the United States attempts to begin a series of tests in the atmosphere. That seems to reveal the true intent of his recent explosions. Were they less to obtain information than to terrorize the world, and by running the radiation counts up to alarming levels prevent any other country from duplicating the experiments?

It can hardly be expected that one huge country will refuse such a dare from another. We may well be on the verge of a contest between the United States and Russia to see which can bring the planet closest to the brink of disaster without actually pushing it over. And in such a case the eventual push-over would be inevitable, for neither could halt while the other proceeded.

At what point would the mass of humanity step in and put a stop to such a trend? Would fathers and mothers in Russia rise against the Kremlin, demand a halt to nuclear explosions and throw out the government if it refused?

Would this reaction take place in the United States and elsewhere? Or would the people of any given nation think that the death of the human race was all right if it was caused in the name of national safety?

Perhaps the human race, because of its long generations of relative security, is losing its instinctive protective fears. Animals sense a forest fire or a tidal wave as it approaches, and run in their thousands to escape it. They don't stay around trying to argue the danger out of existence.

But already the human race is accustoming itself to mass death, and refusing to run. Names are being coined and attached to the various phenomena, which seems somehow to take a lot of the fear out of the idea.

"Genocide" was a word never heard until Hitler's efforts to wipe out a whole race. Now it's a common term. We're getting used to "megadeath," "micromicrocutes," "radiation dose levels" and other practical everyday considerations of life in this era.

Once you've named them they don't seem quite so bad. And then it doesn't seem quite so necessary to worry about them.

Too large a proportion of the earth's population doesn't seem to enjoy living enough to be really concerned about dying—some for understandable reasons and some for less, obvious ones.

Perhaps after all the nuclear craze is only a result of our modern sickness and not the cause. Just as bubonic plague was the result, not the cause, of bad living conditions.

Some Fundamental Changes in Prospect

IN a major policy address entitled the "Threshold of a New Trading World," Mr. George Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state for economic affairs, has pledged the Kennedy administration to work with the Common Market to create "a close-knit trading system in the free world." Mr. Ball, who is the senior economic official in the state department, made many of the points which were emphasized by Mr. Herter and Mr. Clayton in their historic report to Congress calling for the partnership of the United States with the Common Market as the first essential step in creating an economic community embracing the entire free world.

He spoke with the full approval of President Kennedy. Since his address is the first responsible statement, in ample detail, of the Kennedy administration's attitude to the Common Market, it deserves very careful study.

Mr. Ball said that those of us who thought about the economic future tended to underestimate one element and to overlook another. We did not appreciate the vitality of the forces latent in European industry. Nor did we comprehend the energy which these forces might achieve once they were let loose in the arena of a great new mass market.

Mr. Ball said that those of us who thought about the economic future tended to underestimate one element and to overlook another. We did not appreciate the vitality of the forces latent in European industry. Nor did we comprehend the energy which these forces might achieve once they were let loose in the arena of a great new mass market.

Hard Choices

We knew, when we thought about it, that the European nations were making hard choices. They were maintaining extraordinarily high investment rates at the price of considerable self-denial. They were driving hard toward economic and political unification.

But there were few, even among the most experienced of us, who foresaw the spectacular consequences that would result as these two developments began to interact on one another.

By the 1960s the situation was clear enough. The Marshall plan had been fully vindicated. A resurgent European industry had found a whole new concept of opportunity in the new frontier of a Common Market.

The record of these developments can be instructive for us. European industrialists, by and large, had not been eager for a change. Most had resisted the early proposals for a unified Europe, and they had been skeptical of the Common Market when it was first conceived.

But once they had accepted the Common Market as an inescapable fact they were forced to make their plans on the basis that it would continue. And in the process they discovered untapped resources of strength and energy.

Mass Market

Europe's businessmen took various steps to adapt their enterprises to the requirements and the opportunities of a new mass market. They gained structural strength through mergers. They improved their operations through the rationalization of product lines, through investment, through modernization.

And, having taken these difficult steps, many found to their great relief that the dreaded competition from other European producers was not so formidable after all.

To many of us, said Mr. Ball, it has come as a surprise that after an initial period of resistance the industrial leaders of western Europe have become the strongest advocates for accelerating the Common Market schedule toward full integration. With new-found self-confidence, they are laying plans for expansion, for additional specialization and market penetration on a scale that has no precedents in European history.

Quite obviously the transformation of six nations of Europe into a common market has had a major effect on world trading patterns. Already this is clear enough in trade statistics. But that change is only a partial foreshadowing of what is yet to come if Great Britain succeeds in the negotiations she has now undertaken to become a member of the European Community.

Those negotiations will necessarily be complex. What is involved is not merely the extension of the geographical scope of the present Common Market to include the United Kingdom. What is involved is a reconsideration of a complex network of trading relationships involving a considerable part of the free world.

Mr. Ball said that those of us who thought about the economic future tended to underestimate one element and to overlook another. We did not appreciate the vitality of the forces latent in European industry. Nor did we comprehend the energy which these forces might achieve once they were let loose in the arena of a great new mass market.

Trading Centre

Even as presently constituted, the European Common Market is more than a European arrangement; it is the centre of a trading system whose ramifications spread into Africa and other continents. It has associated with it some 16 independent countries and a number of areas in varying degrees of dependency which constitute what is now known as the associated overseas states. These states have free access to the Common Market.

The United Kingdom is the hub of another world trading system of more than 60 countries and territories with a total population of three-quarters of a billion people, a system built upon the tariff preferences in the sterling area.

Is It Moral . . . ?

It seems odd at this time of world crisis we have heard little or nothing definite from the church leaders about the moral issue of atomic testing.

As Russia is outspokenly anti-Christian one can hardly expect her to be guided by Christian ethics. Now however the U.S.A. is threatening to resume atmospheric testing in "self-defence" thus adding to world pollution and proving, as far as we can see, absolutely nothing.

One prominent English cleric who has taken a leading role in anti-bomb demonstrations has been criticized by his peers as lacking in dignity. This is strange as Christ himself was not afraid to demonstrate his wrath.

We would like all clerics to answer publicly these questions:

Is it moral for any nation to take part in tests which threaten human life?

Is it unutterable arrogance of man to make the world unsafe for animals, fish, plants and other living things for the sake of current political principles which are more honored in the breach than the observance?

Since that time it would seem to me they have sat back and let the world roll along and done nothing. Now our world is being polluted by dirty bombs set off by man.

Difference in Diseases

Many puzzled people write me to ask what their doctors meant when they said that their trouble was "functional" and not "organic."

The doctor, in each case, did not explain further, and perhaps if he had tried to explain, he would have found this hard to do. By "functional" we doctors mean that when we look carefully, we cannot see any local disease—like a tumor or an ulcer or a gallstone—that can explain the patient's distress. By "organic" we mean that we can find an obvious disease that a surgeon could perhaps cut out.

However, sticklers for scientific accuracy keep reminding us that even the person who has a neurosis which never "develops into anything" may have something chemically or microscopically wrong with his brain. In many cases it is obvious that he was born with an irritable and worrisome temperament just like that of his mother and his uncle.

I often think of a man who, down south, has been bitten by a "black widow" spider. Although, for a while, he has terrible abdominal pain due to the spider bite, if a surgeon, not knowing of the bite, opens his abdomen and looks in, he will not see anything wrong. In such case we have what looks like a functional disease, and yet it is organic because it is due to a powerful poison.

Through the years, I have seen hundreds of persons with severe abdominal pain, some of whom had had their abdomens opened by surgeons a half-dozen times, without any thing wrong ever being found. Often in these cases, I learned that the patient's trouble was up in his brain, perhaps a severe migraine or a mild psychosis, a little stroke, an old brain fever, or, rarely, a brain tumor.

In some cases, the pain came simply because the patient had blown his top. A school teacher friend of mine got severe abdominal pain and retching whenever her good-for-nothing son was arrested for writing worthless cheques. In some of these cases, the cause was organic, in some it was debatable. At autopsy, nothing wrong may be found in the brain of an insane man, and yet I am sure there is something wrong—something that some day will be found by a chemist or a microscopist.

Scores of older people write anxiously to say that an eye doctor has just found small changes in the lenses of their eyes—changes which indicate the coming some day of cataracts. My correspondents want to know if, by taking some drug, they can keep the cataracts from becoming fully developed.

Actually, I know of no such drug. If, tomorrow, my ophthalmologist were to tell me that small changes were appearing in the lenses of my eyes, I would not get panicky. In the first place, with good luck, the opacity that makes cataracts in lenses might not develop fully for a long time; in the second place, if the lenses were to become so "frosted" that I could not see through them, I would have them removed by a simple operation. And, unlike many people, I would have no fear of this operation, even if I had to have it performed when I was 80. The operation is not painful; it takes only a few minutes, and there should be no mortality.

HOME GARDEN

They Underestimated Camellia

The camellia is a favorite garden plant in this area. In fact, it is often seen as the only shrub grown in some of the older gardens.

It's hard to believe, but 50 years ago, the camellia was thought to be insufficiently winter-hardy to resist the weather here, and in similar climates. It was grown only in heated greenhouses and private conservatories.

Fortunately time has proven that the camellia is perfectly frost hardy here, and given suitable fibrous soil to hold moisture in summer, and the right location, it will thrive with little attention.

Possibly the location is the most important part of the cultural requirements. The shrub as a whole is winter-hardy enough, but the opening buds and newly opened flowers can be badly browned if the early morning sun strikes them after a night frost in early spring.

To prevent this happening, it is certainly advisable to plant the camellia in such a position that the frost will have left the buds before the sun strikes them. Usually a south, or southwest position is chosen, near a housewall, although this is not the best.

AWAY FROM WALLS

If the garden is in an open area, summer heat reflected from the house wall (particularly if white) can be intense enough to burn the leaves. The ideal location is away from walls, with shelter from north and east created by other shrubs or trees.

OTAWA (CP) — Go west, poor motorist. It's the cheapest place to operate a car.

The Dominion bureau of statistics said today the average cost of taxes and licences required to operate a motor vehicle in Canada was $108 last year—about the same as 1959.

All the western provinces were below the average. All the eastern provinces were above. The real haven was the Northwest Territories and the Yukon, where the average was $50.

The figures included gasoline taxes and registration and similar fees.

The biggest bite was Newfoundland's at $131. Quebec was next at $129, followed by New Brunswick $126, Nova Scotia $117, Ontario $113, and Prince Edward Island $107.

Manitoba and Alberta averaged $82, British Columbia $87 and Saskatchewan $88.

All provincial and territorial government revenues from licences and fuel taxes last year totalled $568,339,000.

5 ROYAL VISIT SEEMS ASSURED

Final Check-Up in Ghana

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—A British cabinet minister arrived here today and conferred for 45 minutes with President Kwame Nkrumah on Queen Elizabeth's scheduled visit to internationally-troubled Ghana Thursday.

Commonwealth Relations Secretary Duncan Sandys and Nkrumah met at Flagstaff House, Nkrumah's official residence.

No comment was immediately available on the talks.

But observers here said that failing any more bombings or "incidents" it was obvious that the royal tour would take place as scheduled.

PROTEST PARADE

A parade was held in Accra early today to protest against Saturday's bombings. Most of those taking part were women. A parade leader told the Ghana News Agency the protest was intended to reaffirm our unflinching support for Nkrumah and his government.

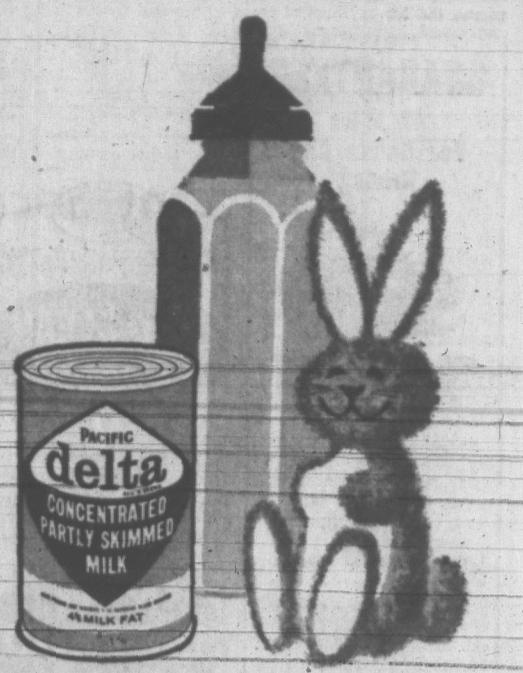

Sandys was met at the airport by Foreign Minister Ako Adjei and British High Commissioner Sir Arthur Snelling.

Sandys said he and his colleagues in the British government thought it advisable for the "final talk" with Nkrumah before the visit, scheduled to begin Thursday. He said Nkrumah welcomed the suggestion.

Security measures were instituted after the bomb blasts. Police patrols armed with heavy night sticks roamed Accra during the night.

But there were fears in Britain for the Queen's safety in sweeping Accra that he left his official residence, Flagstaff House, and spent the night at the main army camp here.

Language Bar Angers French-Canadians

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian novelists Hugh MacLennan says most French-Canadians would like to be independent of the rest of Canada but they do not believe independence is either possible or responsible.

He told a meeting of the Vancouver Institute Saturday that the people of Quebec are exasperated and frustrated by English-speaking Canadians.

"They are angered by our refusal to learn French and at certain provinces which do not allow educational rights to French-Canadian minorities," he said.

Mr. MacLennan said young

French-Canadians feel isolated by the language barrier on the "English side" and are turning to Paris for intellectual guidance.

However, he said, the move for secession from Canada will not succeed because it cannot be shown how this independence could be achieved peacefully.

Radiation Monitors Cast In Vital Pivot Men Role

By AB KENT

Times reporter Ab Kent spent two weeks in October at Canadian Civil Defence College, Arnprior, Ont., on a national survival course. In this series of six articles he will describe some aspects of Canada's civil defence program, how it affects individuals and some of its weaknesses.

Canada's proposed radiological defence system pivots on thousands of plotters known as radiation monitors.

Although this phase of national survival is an army responsibility, its success depends upon a small army of civilians trained and poised at the local level.

Radiological defence means the country's capability to predict, report and plot nuclear detonations and their accompanying radioactive fallout.

It is hoped the monitors will never have the chance to report a nuclear blast, but their value could be just as high in the event of growing atmospheric contamination with continued nuclear testing.

Report Intensity

What they do would be to measure radioactivity intensity in their immediate areas, submitting reports to filter centres which would pass along information for plotting on grid maps.

Results would appear like isobars on a weather map, and because they refer to radiation intensity they are called isorads.

Since fallout depends largely upon wind direction and intensity, the isorads are liable to assume some very irregular shapes stretching many miles downwind from a nuclear blast.

Purpose of the plotting is threefold:

1. To determine where people can resume normal activities.

2. To determine where special precautions are needed.

3. To be in a position to fix what special steps should be taken (e.g. — confinement to shelters for a predicted time until initial hazard has passed).

Show Galleries Close to Ready New Exhibition

The Art Gallery's exhibition galleries will be closed today, Tuesday and Wednesday in preparation for the formal opening by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes of its 10th anniversary exhibition "From the Age of Elegance."

Because of the number of objects involved, which include paintings, porcelain, furniture, silver and drawings of the 18th century, a longer time than usual will be needed for the installation of the show.

Apart from its exhibitions, the Gallery will be open for business as usual.

Also opening on Thursday will be a collection of watercolors of the London scene by the Saanich artist Arthur Pitts who before settling here in 1947 was for many years one of the leading London cartoonists.

This advertisement is not published or displayed by the Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia.

The whole system is based on the premise that the public must be kept informed of the radiation hazard and properly instructed to act accordingly.

Elements of the organization fall into five headings; together known as NDFRS — nuclear detonation and fallout reporting system. They are:

Nuclear data collecting centre; nuclear analysis and prediction centres; NUDET or nuclear detonation reporting posts; fallout reporting posts and filter centres.

The collecting centre will be located at the federal warning centre, probably deep in the four-level underground dugout near Ottawa to house our government's leaders.

Nuclear analysis and prediction centres will be integral with provincial warning centres. NUDET posts will number at least 48, or three to each of the country's 16 probable target areas, including Victoria and Vancouver.

But, said Maj. White, "radiation evacuation in the face of fallout is an army responsibility in conjunction with provincial authorities."

"Without the monitor we don't have a radiological defence system. They are vital and we are going to require a large number of them. The army needs you and many hundreds like you," a class of monitor instructors was told at Civil Defence College last month.

The officer said one federal agency will be responsible for buying, inspecting and maintaining radiological survey instruments.

"My own personal belief is that it will be the army," Maj. White said.

The next installment will cover the duties of a radiation monitor.

IVAN LIVES IT UP FOR 44TH OF OCTOBER

MOSCOW (AP) — Today is Sunday, the 44th of October in Moscow.

This means the Soviet capital has started a non-stop three-day celebration of the 1917 Bolshevik revolution.

The authorities decided to make Monday into Sunday and vice versa, so people who are generally off on Sunday could get the full three days together. Nov. 5 was just another working day.

As for the strange date, that's the Russian way of saying it's the 44th anniversary of the revolution which took place in October under the old Czarist calendar—Nov. 7, by the modern calendar.

Newspapers this morning splashed their front pages with drawings of Lenin surrounded by happy peasants, happy factory workers and space ships soaring into the sky. Most had multi-colored cartoons on their back pages showing American rage and frustration at Soviet achievements.

From the celebrants' point of view, this was the best holiday year in a long time. Meat, fruit and vegetables were in plentiful supply. More stores have opened, so queues aren't as long as usual.

Colored lights were strung in the main streets, buildings were covered with flashing neon signs and the usual red flags and portraits of Communists leaders were on big public buildings.

Conspicuously absent were pictures of Joseph Stalin.

Fire Kills 3 Children On Reserve

(Compiled from CP)

SQUAMISH — Three children died Sunday in a fire on an Indian reserve near Pemberton, 40 miles northeast of here.

Their father and a fourth child were brought to hospital here for treatment for burns.

Dead are Joani Pierre, six; her brother Dennis, 18 months, and sister Jane, five months.

In hospital in good condition are Dennis Pierre and his six-year-old son, Harry.

Mrs. Pierre was apparently away from the family home at the time.

Residents of the Mount Currie reserve formed a bucket brigade but the wooden home was destroyed within minutes.

Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Gun Game Fatal

TERRACE — A ten-year-old boy was accidentally shot and killed in Terrace Saturday while he and a companion played with a .22-calibre revolver.

Dead is Stephen Mahoney, who was playing at the home of his friend when the revolver discharged and the bullet struck him above the heart.

'Society Burglar'

VANCOUVER — Police believe they have captured a "society burglar" who stole thousands of dollars worth of goods in the well-to-do and middle-class areas of Shaughnessy, Kerrisdale and Marine Drive.

They said they have recovered stolen goods that range from a $1,000 figurine to fur coats, rare goblets, paintings and fine linens.

Other furs have been traced to Ontario, they said.

The man was trapped by police answering a burglar alarm at the home of Walter C. Keerner.

Stanley Wilks appeared in police court Saturday and was remanded without plea on charge of breaking and entering and possession of house-breaking instruments.

Safety Program

VANCOUVER — British Columbia autos equipped with safety belts will soon be identified by a green triangular reflector if the British Columbia Safety Council has its way. The reflector campaign is aimed at making the province's motorists more safety conscious and to promote public recognition of safety belts.

Killed by Gas

VANCOUVER — The caretaker of an apartment block and his wife died Sunday of carbon monoxide poisoning caused by an improperly-installed gas heater.

The deaths of Sidney Norman, about 69, and his wife Ophrie, about 54, were the first in about five years from natural gas appliances, said provincial gas inspector A. G. Kaneen.

The gas inspector said the heater was not completely connected to a vent, allowing the spread of fumes.

A tenant of the block said Mr. Norman, a retired plumber, installed the heater in his apartment Friday.

Raids in Kootenays

NELSON — Six men were taken into custody Sunday in a Doukhobor Free-domite colony near here during the weekend.

RCMP later charged John Mazoroff of Krestova with possession of explosives with intent to damage property.

Five others were held for questioning.

Police searched several homes in the Krestova settlement in a stepped-up investigation of widespread arson and bombing terrorism in the Kootenay district of southeastern British Columbia.

Earlier last week, two other Krestova residents were also charged with unlawful possession of explosives.

RCMP said Sunday that further arrests are expected.

Tax Charge

VANCOUVER — A director of the Vancouver Lions football club and former junior football coach has been charged with four counts of income tax evasion.

Charges against Ranjit S. Mattu, manager of Hemir Lumber, specify he made false or deceptive statements on tax returns covering the years 1955 to 1958.

The Crown alleges Mattu omitted from tax returns for those years certain income arising from lumber operations.

Mattu is a current Lions director and former coach of the Vancouver Blue Bombers junior football team, which won the 1947 Canadian junior football title.

Shell scientists test Super Shell's special Winter Blend in a new all-weather laboratory. Temperature and humidity can be varied to duplicate weather conditions from Halifax to B.C.

B.C. WINTER BLEND

Shell scientists adjust three of Super Shell's nine ingredients to create a special winter formula for top performance in damp West Coast weather

Shell stations are now pumping a blend of Super Shell's nine ingredients especially formulated to give you faster starts and quicker warm-ups on cold mornings. The dosage of two ingredients (butane and mixed pentanes) has increased. A third ingredient is added to cut stalling caused by carburetor frosting*. Read how Super Shell's B.C. Winter Blend helps make cold weather driving more pleasant.

A GASOLINE that gives you top performance in summer can make your car difficult to start and balky to drive when the temperature drops.

Tests in Shell's new winter laboratory prove it—at temperatures from forty above to forty below zero—and in man made sleet, fog, snow. That is why, this October, Shell scientists have altered the formula of Super Shell to create a special mix for low temperatures and high humidity—a B.C. Winter Blend.

Here is how three of the nine ingredients in Super Shell have been adjusted to create a Winter Blend for West Coast weather conditions:

*Carburetor frosting (sometimes called "carburetor icing," or simply "cold stalling") should not be confused with gas line freezing. Carburetor frosting occurs in chilly, damp weather. It does not occur in cold, dry weather. When the mercury dips to 10° or below, carburetor frosting is no longer a problem, but gas line freezing can occur. Water condensing in your car's fuel tank freezes in the gas line. This stops the flow of gasoline and you are stalled. The best insurance against gas line freezing is a can of gas line anti-freeze added at your Shell service station. Never let your tank get below half full—the less air, the less moisture there is to condense.

as your refrigerator. The moisture in the air freezes and clings to the metal carburetor walls like the frost that forms in your refrigerator.

Under normal running conditions you won't be aware of the frost, but when you close the throttle, e.g. at a red light, it can choke off the air supply and your engine stalls. The anti-froster in Super Shell fights this maddening phenomenon by coating carburetor walls so that ice can't stick to them. This drastically reduces your chances of an icing stall whenever the temperature drops to 45° or lower.

2. Butane content increased to give you quick starts

If you have trouble starting your car in cold weather it may be that your gasoline is not vaporizing as promptly as it should. Until it starts to vaporize and mix with the air in your carburetor, gasoline has a hard time "firing" your engine.

Shell scientists fight this problem with an extra dose of butane. Butane is highly volatile—which means that it changes easily from a liquid to a vapor.

The change is the same sort of thing that happens when water boils and turns into steam. Butane actually boils and vaporizes at 31.1°F.—lower than the temperature inside your refrigerator. It is so eager to get going Shell has to store it under pressure until it is tamed by mixing with other ingredients.

This remarkable ingredient increases the volatility of Super Shell dramatically. Fires your engine in a hurry. Takes a strain off your battery—and also off your patience.

3. A bigger dose of mixed pentanes for fast warm-ups on cold days

Starting is just part of the story. Cold engines struggle and sputter annoyingly until they warm up. This wastes gasoline.

That is why Shell scientists increase the dose of mixed pentanes in Super Shell's B.C. Winter Blend—to speed up the delivery of heat to your engine. Shell makes mixed pentanes by subjecting petroleum to terrific heat, transforming heavier hydrocarbons into lighter, quick-burning molecules.

Blended into Super Shell, these quick-burning molecules work much like kindling in a log fire. They ignite easily and everything gets going quickly. Your engine warms up faster, gets over that hesitant, balky feeling in a hurry.

Fill up with special B.C. Winter Blend

Make sure you're ready for winter driving with a tankful of Super Shell's B.C. Winter Blend.

Its nine-ingredient formula is adjusted to help make the difference between balky, sputtering performance and a fast, smooth getaway. Don't forget all the other ingredients in today's Super Shell (See box). They're working every day you drive, every season of the year, to give you top performance.

The 9 ingredients in Super Shell and what they do to give your car top performance

#1 is TCP† for power, mileage, and longer plug life.

#2 is mixed pentanes for fast warm-ups.

#3 is anti-knock mix to resist all kinds of knock.

#4 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside.

#5 is butane for quick starts on cold mornings.

#6 is "cat-cracked" gasoline—for extra power.

#7 is a carburetor defroster (added in cold weather.)

#8 is heavy alkanes to help control "high-speed knock."

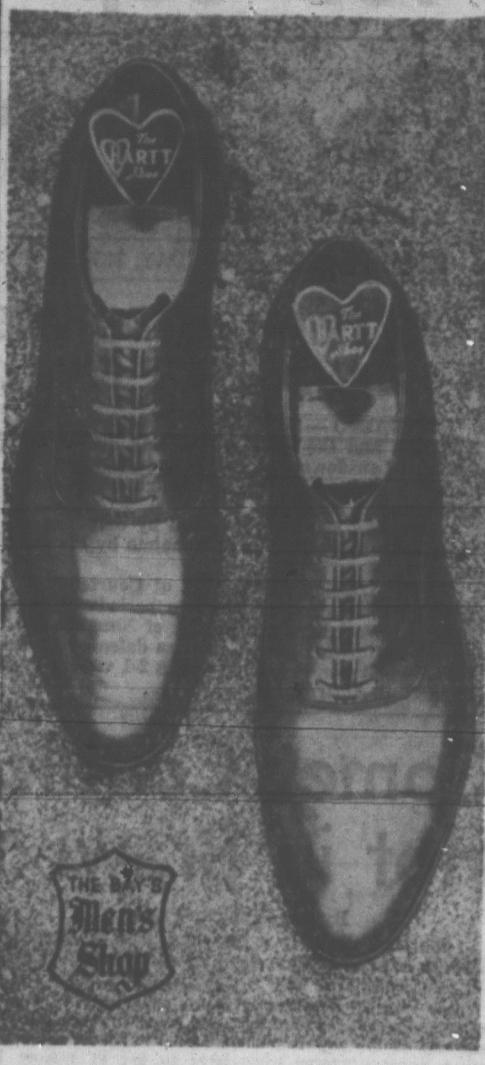

#9 is Platormate for extra mileage.

BOMARC ARGUMENT 'UTTER NONSENSE'

Refuse Nuclear Weapons
As 'Insane,' Judge Urges

ARBORG, Man. (CP) — Mr. Justice Thorson, speaking as honorary president of the Canadian Committee for the Control of Radiation Hazards, told a public meeting here the "argument that the defence of Canada demands that their installation will not be permitted in Canada.

Mr. Justice Thorson, speaking as honorary president of the Canadian Committee for the Control of Radiation Hazards, told a public meeting here the "argument that the defence of Canada demands that their installation will not be permitted in Canada.

nuclear warheads is utter nonsense."

The remarks of the 72-year-old jurist are the most controversial since his public condemnation of the racial segregation policies of South Africa. He attacked apartheid as a blight on civilization.

WAS WAR CHIEF

Mr. Justice Thorson, Liberal minister of national war services from June, 1941, to October, 1942, said Canada "must not take part in this insane nuclear arms race."

Canada's duty, he said, is to continue efforts toward abolition of nuclear tests and to bring about world disarmament so nuclear wars can be prevented.

"If Canada should accept nuclear weapons as an instrument of national policy, whether for assumed defence or other purposes, how could she oppose the extension of their use to other countries such as Egypt," he asked.

"If Canada follows such a course, her moral influence in the cause of disarmament and world peace would be largely destroyed," he said.

Mr. Justice Thorson said it had been argued that the defence of Canada demands that Bomarc missiles be equipped with nuclear warheads.

"There is no support for this argument," he said.

The cold, hard fact was that Canada could not defend itself against a nuclear attack and could not give any effective assistance to the United States if that country were attacked.

Likewise, he said, the Soviet Union could not possibly defend itself against the kind of attack the United States could launch.

MENTAL PATIENTS

Wanted:
7,500
Presents

Put a gift for a mental health patient on top of your Christmas shopping list.

That is the appeal to citizens of British Columbia from Mrs. E. F. Wadsworth, local chairman of the Canadian Mental Health Association's Christmas gift program.

The appeal was launched Saturday in the hope that the 7,500 gifts needed for all mentally ill patients in B.C. hospitals will be received early enough for wrapping.

NAME ON GIFT

Each gift will bear the patient's name.

"In many cases, this is the only contact the patient has during the year with people outside the hospital, apart from hospital staff and CMHA volunteers," Mrs. Wadsworth said.

Almost any item of indoor clothing is suitable as a gift, she added. Personal gifts such as fancy soap, chocolates, magazine subscriptions, playing cards, tobacco or instant coffee are also welcome.

DOLLAR ENOUGH

The gifts need not be expensive — about a dollar will suffice. Givers will have the satisfaction of knowing they are boosting the morale of someone who might be forgotten.

Gifts may be wrapped in Christmas paper but should not be sealed with stickers or scotch tape.

A note attached to the gift indicating whether it is for a man or woman will be of great help to sorters.

CITY DEPTOS

Gift depots have been placed at Spencer's stores on Government and Douglas Streets; Jamieson Motors on Broughton. Gifts may also be left at the CMHA White Cross Centre, 799 Lampson, Esquimalt.

Cash donations may be left with Mrs. Irene Warren, public relations department, Hudson's Bay Co., Victoria.

Cheques may be mailed to the CMHA Christmas Gift Fund, 799 Lampson, Esquimalt.

Leos Levelled By Power Of Earthquake

Lunsford Sets Rushing Mark
As Stampeders Crush Lions

The 1961 regular schedule of the Western Football Conference ended Sunday with a record-breaking rushing performance by Calgary's Earl "The Earthquake" Lunsford.

Little Len Too Tricky For Argos

Ottawa Rough Riders never seem to run out of surprises for Toronto Argonauts.

Saturday they used a 166-pound defensive backfielder, discarded by Hamilton Tiger-Cats, as a pass catcher. Little Len Chandler revelled in the role, going for two touchdowns as the Riders defeated the Argos 35-23 and wrapped up second place in the final standings of the Eastern Football Conference.

In Saturday's other game, the last-place Montreal Alouettes defeated the champion Tiger-Cats 21-6 at Montreal.

KUNTZ CLEVER

By keeping second, one point ahead of the Argos, the Rough Riders earned home grounds for a sudden-death clash between the two next Saturday. The Ticats will meet the winner in a two-game, total-points series.

The only exciting performance for Toronto before the 17,144 fans was put on by dynamic Bobby Kuntz, whose second touchdown narrowed the Argo deficit to 28-22. The first Kuntz touchdown, in the third quarter, saw him go 56 yards on a burst through centre when he was sent into the line in a bid to pick up a yard on third down. For his second, in the final quarter, he hurdled the line in a play from the Ottawa three.

Davies' Run Sends Royals Into Finals

EDMONTON (CP) — New Westminster Royals turned three fumbles and a blocked kick into touchdowns and a 33-30 victory Sunday over Edmonton Hams in the Alberta-British Columbia sudden-death intermediate football playoff.

New Westminster now advances to the Western Canada final against St. Vital Bulldogs in Winnipeg Sunday.

Quarterback Mike Davies of New Westminster scored three touchdowns, including the deciding one in the last four minutes of the game.

GORGES PADS LEAD

Netminders Shine In Boot Battles

Roll out the red carpet today for the goalkeepers.

Scorers put their boots to 22 scoring shots, but the men between the posts figured prominently in Sunday's Victoria and District Soccer League activity.

Most winning teams will say nice things only about their own, but don't blame Gorge Hotel for tossing accolades at two goalies.

Of course, they'll thank their own Archie MacMillan for his 3-0 whitewash job on Brodies Bakery. They should also say nice things about Tony Martin, Duncan Rangers' standout who Sunday was at his best in holding Hourigan's Kickers to a scoreless draw.

EXTENDS LEAD

The results helped Gorge extend its league lead to two points over Victoria West and the Kickers.

The onrushing Gorge West, sparked by Horst Zekola's three goals, will give their thanks to Dave Unwin for his 5-0 shutout of Nanaimo.

Zekola, Canadian Scottish forward Terry Tobacco and Evcoes Maurice Bunyan were the scorers who prevented every goalie from getting into Sunday's limelight stealing act.

THREE FOR TERRY

Tobacco, shifted to centre forward because of the absence of young Larry Johnson, also scored three goals to pace the Scots to a 6-1 verdict over Esquimalt.

The veteran Bunyan counted only one, but it came 10 seconds before time to give Evcoes a 1-1 tie with Heaneys.

In Sunday's other game, George Johnstone scored two goals and Jim Irvin one to give Ladysmith its first victory of the season, a 3-2 decision over still-winless Saanich Thistles.

THE VICTORY LADDER

Winners all in the sixth annual Victoria Invitational badminton tournament which concluded Sunday at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club (from bottom) are: Tyna Baringa, women's singles; Wayne Macdonnell, men's singles; Maureen Hibberdson, ladies' doubles; Sharon Whittaker, ladies' doubles; Rolf Paterson, men's doubles; Donna Connally, mixed doubles; and, Ed Paterson, men's doubles and mixed doubles.

Shuttle Book Printed Right

The book called for Tyna Baringa and Wayne Macdonnell to win top honors in the sixth Victoria invitational badminton tourney—and the book was right.

When they stopped smacking shuttlecocks at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, Sunday, talented Tyna had the ladies' singles crown, while wily Wayne took the men's counterpart.

Oak Bay Whites are continuing their unbeaten march in the Victoria Rugby Union.

Whites got a stiff argument from an improving Victoria College "A" squad Saturday, but managed to come out with a 14-9 victory to run their win streak to five games.

In another match played Saturday, Oak Bay Reds ground out a 14-10 triumph over a stubborn Royal Roads side.

Farmers Pop Balloon

Oak Bay Farmers Sunday tossed a sharp pitchfork at the big balloon Victoria Vampires had been carrying atop the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League.

Unbeaten in seven previous starts, Vamps lost Sunday's game at Macdonald Park, 20-7; the coveted first position in the standing, and the big man in their attack.

Quarterback Brian Rigby, whose throwing arm and a do-it-singling helped Vampires average almost 38 points a game, suffered possible torn ligaments when tackled late in the first half.

TOOK EARLY LEAD

Farmers, blocking extremely well, led 14 to 0 at the half Sunday and traded touchdowns with their cross-town rivals in the last five minutes of play.

Terry Cox, Pat Wardell and Whitley Sandberg scored Farmers' touchdowns. John Todd converted all three, but the final one was wiped out because of a penalty. Fred Holmes scored Vampires' only touchdown, which was converted by Dan Ness.

E. German Guns Separate Mothers From Children

BERLIN (Reuters) — East German police Sunday opened fire on a group of about 30 men, women and children attempting to escape into West Berlin.

The couple reached West Berlin safely but only five men and four children from the group of 30 made it across the heavily-guarded border.

West Berlin police said they did not know the fate of the others who included the mother of the children.

The larger part of the group were still on the Communist side of the border when the shooting began and they turned and ran back into East Berlin. East German police ran after them but it could not be seen what happened to them.

The four children were a nine-months-old baby and three youngsters aged 5, 9 and 14.

Duel Fought
To a Draw

BERLIN (Reuters) — East and West Berlin police today threw a total of 144 tear gas grenades at each other in what West Berlin police described as the biggest tear gas duel to have taken place at the East-West Berlin border.

East Berlin police hurled tear gas at West Berlin workers who were removing a 300-yard wire mesh fence standing just inside West Berlin territory.

The East Germans had previously attached it to their barbed wire border fence.

West Berlin police retaliated and each side threw 72 grenades. Nobody was hurt, West Berlin police said.

Meanwhile, Gen. Lucius Clay, President Kennedy's representative in Berlin, today opened an American exhibition in Berlin devoted to the wall dividing East and West Berlin—an exhibition which will continue as long as the wall stays up.

He described the wall as "something we must never forget and never forgive."

CROWDS ANGRY AS 'HOLY MAN' DIDN'T DIE

NEW DELHI (AP) — Bhagwan Singh, an 85-year-old Sikh holy man who claims he saw the divine light in 1908, announced he would die at 10 a.m. Sunday. Ten thousand persons assembled before a temple in Ludhiana, 175 miles northwest of New Delhi. The old man came out of the temple and lay down on a platform, his coffin waiting nearby. Singh did not die on schedule. After a time it was announced he had decided to live because the people wanted him to. The Hindustan Times reported thousands were disappointed.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Terrible-tempered Tammy Grimes has been known to hit or bite her fellow actors, even though it's not in the script . . . to bark unexpectedly at them . . . to turn her back on the audience . . . and she confesses that she constantly dreams of telling some inattentive audience to leave immediately and go to a movie.

Tammy takes her acting seriously and wants everybody else to do the same.

"Perhaps the first three rows have heard me rant because I do talk a lot," Tammy said the other afternoon, sitting in a white nightgown in bed in her dressing room at the Winter Garden where she's given 400 performances of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

"One gentleman in the cast had a hard time one night trying to keep his eyes open," she said. "Now he has nothing to say in the play and it could be a bit of a bore."

SURPRISED

"Still, I don't think it would be nice of him to go to sleep. I said to him, 'Just don't go to sleep! DON'T YOU GO TO SLEEP!' He was pretty surprised."

Then there's a woman in the cast who has no lines and one night she gave herself a line. She said, "What are you doing, honey?" I said, "WHAT DID YOU SAY?" She went wonky.

Tammy has made up in her own mind in great detail the speech she would like to make on an occasional Friday night audience.

COME ON YOUR OWN

"Ladies and gentlemen," she can hear herself saying, "just because you paid $11.10 for your seats, the fact is I didn't invite you here. You came on your own. No actor has ever done anything for money and it doesn't matter whether you paid $11 or $300. The fact is, you're a bad audience. Just do everybody a favor and leave. Go and see 'Spartacus'—it's a good movie. Wait, I'm going with you."

Tammy claims there's a precedent for this sort of thing—that Frederic March once objected to a man in the third row snoring and called an usher to remove the snorer.

RETURNED REELING

And that actor Robert Newton and a fellow performer once went to a pub between acts, in their disgust at the audience, and came on stage reeling later. When the audience started throwing things at Newton, he hiccuped at them. "Wait'll you see my colleague!"

"Yet," Tammy said, "you as the actor are greatly responsible for that audience's behaviour and you listen to it as much as you listen to the other actors."

"You are aware of that great mass out there that you can't really see, but you can feel. They are like one enormous person."

"Sometimes it isn't so much the laughs, but the quiet! If there's that stillness, you know they are listening and that they care."

Tammy says that's one reason she never makes the Angry Young Woman speech.

"Because you're m商量

And the answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the question will be asked will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Judy Russell, aged 11, of Tokyo, Japan, for her question:

What Causes the Craters on the Moon?

The New World was just a craters were caused by lunar few thousand miles away, but Columbus had no idea what he would find there. The astronauts who will cross some 235,000 miles to land on the moon have a good idea of what they will find. For man has been gazing at the moon for countless ages. As telescopes got better and better, revealing more and more details of the lunar landscape, scientists have been able to use what they know to speculate about the features of the moon and how they were caused.

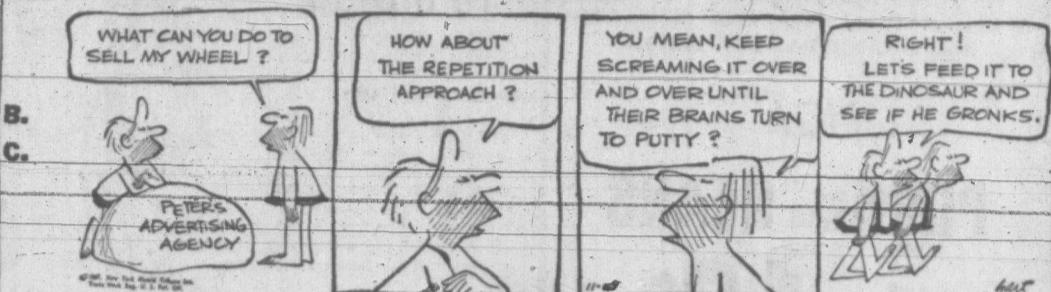

The mountains and the flat plains on the moon do not surprise us, for the earth has many such features. The lunar craters, however, tease and puzzle us. Most of them are round pits ringed with steep walls, somewhat like Meteor Crater in Arizona. For a long time many experts thought that the lunar craters were caused by falling meteors. Up-to-date theories disagree. They also disagree with the older theory that the

Bubble Would Form Dome

A seething pocket of magma might bubble up to form a dome on the surface. Under the chilly lunar night the dome would collapse, leaving a flat floor surrounded by a second ring of cooling lava. Later, a smaller outburst might bubble up through the weak floor of the pit.

Laboratory experiments show that molten material under a solid surface will be

Doctor Prefers Aussie Plan

Australia's national health plan is "much preferable" to the British plan, Dr. E. C. McCoy of the B.C. Medical Association said here Saturday.

In a talk to the 17th annual meeting of the Western Conference of Prepaid Medical Service Plans, Dr. McCoy told of a visit to Australia, and added:

"There is considerably less interference by the government," he said. "We believe governments should subsidize patients who need help, not provide free medical service for everyone as is done in Britain."

Some 200 representatives of prepaid medical plans in western Canada and the western U.S. attended the three-day conference.

Dr. John Frazer of the Hawall Medical Service Association was elected president of the Western Conference, with Dr. J. Howard Black of Vancouver as president-elect.

A record of $1,289,073,000 was spent on new passenger cars in Canada in 1960.

Living Costs Take Another Jump

OTTAWA (CP) — Living of 129.4 and the record high of 129.6 last Nov. 1. The index is based on 1949 prices equaling 100.

The consumer price index rose to 129.2 on Oct. 1 from 129.1 a month earlier, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported today.

The index—yardstick of living costs in Canadian cities—still was below its year-earlier level.

But prices were substantially lower for most fresh fruits and vegetables, and prices also were down on chicken, turkey, margarine and veal.

Both rentals and one-owner ship costs moved higher to advance the housing index to 133.6. But prices of some household supplies, furniture and appliances were lower.

Used to be that dependability was stodgy and dull. But not any more...not with Dodge. It goes twice as far between oil changes—drives 32,000 miles between grease jobs. Brakes adjust themselves automatically. The body is rustproofed—good looks stay that way and your investment gets the protection it deserves. That's dependability. But dull? Not on your life! This low price, full size Dodge will put-run and out-corner most any car around. It accelerates seven per cent faster (and gets five per cent more miles per gallon) than last year's model. Dodge is an exciting car. You'll feel it as soon as you sit in the deep-sprung chair-high seats, look at the space around you and at the luxury trim and rich fabrics. You'll feel it especially when you turn the key and put your foot down on the accelerator. No indeed! Dependability doesn't have to be dull...not in Dodge it doesn't.

ALL-OPERA SHOW BIG HIT

Let's Make It First of Many

By AUDREY JOHNSON

All things considered, Victoria is a city unusually well endowed with singers of excellent quality.

Out of the dozen or so available, the current pair of Victoria Symphony Orchestra concerts is starring Anne Harris and John Dunbar in solo and duet excerpts from various operas.

For Sunday's audience the program provided a delightful change of pace. It also constituted a service to the city's musical life in offering vocalists one of our rarist coramodities—a professional engagement.

On all counts I feel that this event warrants the establishment of a tradition that would make each season provide one all-operatic pair of concerts.

In the two overtures to "Marriage of Figaro" and "La Forza del Destino" Hans Gruber and the orchestra capably demonstrated the character and intention of the operatic overture which is to synthesize the opera's principal melodic themes and convey its mood and dramatic intensity.

CHARMING "Figaro" was charming in the delicacy of its handling and suggestion of light-hearted Mozartean gaiety and bubbling spirits. It lead without pause into the opera's opening duet.

In a complete change of mood he gave a beautiful rendering of the sorrowful "Il Lacerate Spirito" from "Simon Boccanegra."

MORE ABANDON Of the orchestral numbers, most strikingly successful was the Bizet "Carmen" suite. It might have done with a touch more abandon, but there was flamboyance, dramatic color and some fine, spirited passages.

Breaking away from opera—at the request of a good patron who is all Anglo-Saxon—Mr. Gruber commemorated Guy Fawkes day with two excerpts from Handel's Royal Fireworks Music.

Russ A-Tests May Do Good Says Foulkes

Russia's nuclear tests have focussed attention on the futility of a nuclear war and may therefore "do good." General Charles Foulkes, former chief of the Canadian general staff, said here Saturday night.

Speaking from his Victoria home, General Foulkes said the Russian tests have focused public attention on "the futility of nuclear war."

He was asked if a nuclear stand-off in which both sides feared to use their weapons could be compared with the decision of warring nations in the Second World War not to use poison gas or bacteriological weapons.

BIG DIFFERENCE "There is a decided difference," he said. "Poison gas and bacteriological warfare were not decisive. Neither side used them because of that and because they were suspicious that the other fellow had the same weapon."

"Nuclear weapons are decisive. One hopes we will reach the stage—we have almost reached it now—where neither side can contemplate using nuclear weapons because of their disastrous effect to the world."

SPEAKS NOV. 13

General Foulkes will discuss defence problems in the nuclear age at a joint meeting of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs at the Empress Hotel, Nov. 13.

He said the West should counter Russian pressure on Berlin by blockading the Baltic or the Bosphorus.

"The West doesn't have to do battle over the Berlin crisis because there are other ways to block Soviet strategy."

"The defence of Berlin is militarily unsound."

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1961—PAGE 17

Fire Marshal Orders Probe After Ninth Mystery Blaze

16,112 Good Neighbors

Big attraction for Victorians Sunday afternoon was the visiting American assault carrier USS Iwo Jima. Official count by the ship's officers showed 16,112 people swarmed aboard the 14,000-ton warship while she was berthed at Esquimalt. At the height of the peaceful "invasion" the Iwo Jima looked like a giant ant-hill," said one USN officer. The open house ended a two-day visit here for the ship and her crew. She left today.

MONTE ROBERTS

I am a devout believer in the preposterousness of the Little Bit of Old England claims made for this, the Fairest City of Them All.

So I was very interested in the reactions of a couple of Iwo Jima sailors as they got their first glimpse of our hollowed environs.

We were driving East on Johnson, just passing the old brewery, when the lad in the front seat beside me remarked:

"This reminds me of the country I come from."

"What's that?" I asked.

"West Virginia," he replied.

"Gwan," said a voice from the back seat. "Where are the hills?"

"We've hills," I said.

"Ye, is West Virginia," said the lad in the front seat.

"Nope," said a second voice from the back. (By this time, we were crossing Johnson Street Bridge.) "This is the spittin' image of my home town—Providence, Rhode Island."

So what shall it be? A little bit of Old West Virginia? Or a Little Bit of Old Rhode Island? Or just plain be-yourself Victoria?

Speaking of the Iwo Jima, her skipper, Capt. Tom Harris, is that combination of old sea dog and smooth public relations man expected of senior naval officers in peace-time.

We wowed his luncheon guests Saturday with this little vignette:

"I am trying hard to learn your language. For instance, when the pilot came on board this morning, I asked him where Admiral Finch-Noyes would be standing as we entered harbor."

"He told me, and added: 'You'll sound the still, of course.'

"Now, I rather gathered he meant I'd order the troops to attention."

"But you must understand, in the United States, a still is something you make whisky in."

"And sounding the still would mean putting in a stick to see how much whisky was left."

Blue Angels Ready to Fly For Centenary

The Blue Angels flight demonstration team would like to make amends for Saturday's split-second flypast by putting on a full air show in the Victoria area for the centenary in 1962.

This could be done, according to Lt.-Smdr. W. R. Meyring, information officer at Whidbey Island, if a request is made to navy headquarters early next year.

"I think it would be terrific, and attract a lot of tourists," he said.

Lt.-Cmrd. Meyring explained the navy's regrets that several thousand Victorians were disappointed by the brevity of the show.

"I was disappointed, too," he said. "A lot of people did a lot of work on this, including you people on the Times, the mayor, the flag officer, and a lot of us at Whidbey. Messages bounced back and forth between here and Washington and Pensacola, and it was just hardly worth it."

He could not explain why a 10-minute flight had been promised. "I thought they'd make at least a couple of circles," he said. "But I talked to the flight leader later, and he said there wasn't enough time or fuel for more than a quick fly-over."

Victoria's winter employment problems will be no worse than last year and possibly a little better according to the indications from the current relief roll.

City welfare administrator William Hooson said today about 180 names are on the assistance to unemployed employable register.

"That's no worse than last year at this time and I think there's a chance the picture might turn out a little better. Last year we hit a peak of 300 names in the February-March period."

Mr. Hooson said potential job prospects on the mainland may have "siphoned off" a number of Victoria unemployed. He also said welfare administration methods have been "tightened up."

Victoria Aged Pensioners' Association No. 3 will meet in the Britannia Hall of the Canadian Legion Tuesday at 2 p.m. They will be guests of Cedar Hill Golf Club every Friday.

Junior Auxiliary of the Royal Jubilee Hospital will hold a "Carousel" bazaar, including lunch and tea, in the hospital nurses' home from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Radiation level here today and Sunday was practically the same as that prevailing since Russia started its nuclear bomb tests Sept. 1, according to a Pacific Naval Laboratory spokesman.

That level is 20 to 30 times higher than normal.

There was no perceptible record of fallout here from the 50-plus megaton bomb exploded by Russia Oct. 30. A few days prior to the big blast, however, the level climbed to 10 times that of the last two months.

Police said he took five bottles of vanilla extract from a Safeway Co. Ltd. of Canada store, 1809 Douglas, Saturday. The bottles were valued at $2.75.

Anthony Sylvester, Beaufort Bay, pleaded guilty in city police court today to theft of goods under the value of $50 and was remanded one week for probation report and sentence.

Police said he took five bottles of vanilla extract from a Safeway Co. Ltd. of Canada store, 1809 Douglas, Saturday. The bottles were valued at $2.75.

Winners of the annual Remembrance Tournament of the Victoria unit, American Contract Bridge League, were: North-South: 1, S. Duprau and L. Stewart; 2, Lillian Lebott and O. Leesment; 3, Ethel Cloworth and Elizabeth Warren; 4, Mr. and Mrs. F. Artlett.

East-West: 1, E. Goodwin and J. Duprau; 2, R. Nickells and A. Marsh; 3, Mr. and Mrs. T. Waddington; 4, Irene Abels and A. Jorgenson.

Next meeting of St. Alban's 50-Up Club will take place in the Parish Hall at 1468 Ryan Street on Thursday afternoon at 2:15.

City Man Killed By Car

Inquest Set For Tuesday

An inquest will be held into the traffic death of an elderly pedestrian in Esquimalt Saturday night.

Coroner, Dr. J. H. Moore, said today the inquest will be Tuesday at 10 a.m. at McCall's Funeral Home.

It was the ninth traffic fatality in Greater Victoria so far this year—Victoria has had four, Esquimalt three and Oak Bay and Saanich one each.

Charles Fletcher Marshall, 68, of the Lincoln Hotel, Victoria, was fatally injured about 10 p.m. when in collision with a car on Esquimalt Road in the 800 block.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital but died 30 minutes after arrival.

MISSING ONCE

A witness, Wayne Fould, 2890 Craigowan, said the man was narrowly missed by one car. The driver, unidentified, stopped and got out of his car to help Mr. Marshall to the sidewalk before driving on.

Mr. Foulds then said the man "staggered" back on to the roadway, missed one car and was hit by another coming the opposite way.

The dead man was born in Kingston, Ont., and came to Victoria in 1942. He was unmarried and lived alone.

He is survived by a sister and nieces and nephews. There will be a private funeral following the inquest.

Job Situation May Be Better Than Last Year

Victoria's winter employment problems will be no worse than last year and possibly a little better according to the indications from the current relief roll.

City welfare administrator William Hooson said today about 180 names are on the assistance to unemployed employable register.

Applications were to be taken up to noon in hopes that the 300 quota might be nearly filled.

The army will be their headquarters while they are trained as part of a 100,000-man core skilled to survive a nuclear war.

Many are youths who have known only the cold war. They have finished school but can't find work.

13 Properties At City Tax Sale

Thirteen properties were sold for back taxes at City Hall today and active bidding gave the city a tentative margin of $9,456 profit.

The properties, with a total of $6,390 owing in back taxes and interest, sold for a total of $15,846.

However, most of them will be redeemed as the old owners have one year in which to pay the tax bill and give 6 per cent interest to today's purchasers.

The annual auction, in city council chambers, was scheduled to dispose of a total of 56 properties but some 43 owners beat the deadline by paying off the tax debt before the sale began.

Some are in their 20s and 30s with young families to support but no jobs.

Average age appeared to be about 30.

"I'd rather do this than draw unemployment insurance," one of the younger ones said.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Forty-One Shopping Days
... Hurry, Hurry, Hurry
By PENNY SAVER

Hello Sis:
Christmas season has a way of creeping up and catching us off guard. Not this year! There are 41 shopping days left (I counted 'em) and so far intentions are good. Now, let's make plans! Have you checked mailing dates yet? They are: Africa and the Far East, parcels and letters, Nov. 3; Philippines, parcels and letters, Nov. 6; Iron Curtain countries, Europe and Central and South Americas, parcels, Nov. 6, and letters, Nov. 24; New Zealand and Australia, parcels and letters, Nov. 16; Great Britain, parcels, Nov. 20, and letters, Nov. 30; U.S.A., parcels and letters, December 7. Local date is Dec. 16 and it would be wise to take off two days for each province east.

Sis, I know how you love to add a little note to each Christmas card, but remember, two cents Christmas card postage just covers a greeting and a signature.

Remember too, it is a waste to spend money on gifts and mailing if your parcels are improperly wrapped or addressed. To give you some idea of the number of letters and parcels that went astray last December in Victoria alone, I called the Post Office and was able to get these facts: 38,000 letters and cards and 100 to 150 parcels, failing delivery and with no return address were sent from Victoria to undeliverable mail offices in Vancouver. Again I remind you this was in only one month!

A few ideas for small inexpensive gifts, especially for the friends who have "everything" may make your shopping easier.

Ice balls. Heard of them? They are frosty plastic, pure water-filled balls, about the size of an ice cube. They can be placed in the freezer compartment of a refrigerator and frozen time and again. Excellent for cold drinks without dilution and for cold dishes that need chilling. No fuss or mess, just rinse under the tap and refreeze. A real saver, at 18 balls for $2.

Long, long shoe horns, 24 inches, styled as riding crops, feature metal shaft with horn on the end. Only $1.25 these will delight most any man.

A touch of rich elegance can be added to the dining room with mahogany salt and pepper mill sets. They are about 3 1/2 inches tall with silver plated tops and bases. Lovely at $3.50.

You shopping early, too?

Penny, EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

For the Love of Man—Be Limber,
Be Loving and Little Bit Crazy!

A psychologist once gave me an abbreviated bit of advice a woman can use to keep a man in love with her. He said, "The woman who is attractive to men likes to be kissed and has a good sense of humor."

Another psychologist once said, "When giving advice about remaining youthful and getting the most out of life, stay limber and loving and a little bit crazy."

Remaining limber indicates attention to health, a graceful carriage and physical vitality. It may even mean flexibility of viewpoint and habits and approach to life.

Stay loving? It just doesn't seem right for a woman to be anything else. Warmth and tenderness are part of her charm. A rugged, hard-hitting, bitter attitude is as unbecoming as trousers are for women.

A little crazy? The world is a lot more fun if you are a little looney, if your sense of humor changes hectic situations into laughs; if you know how to meet the unexpected with a shrug of the shoulders and drain it of every bit of wit, if you do not mind but rather enjoy the unusual, if you do not live in every detail just as others do. Those who are a little crazy usually think originally and have a bit of spirit.

So why not be limber, loving and a little crazy? You will enjoy life more and you certainly will remain youthful much longer.

St. Patrick's Church Setting for Wedding

Father M. J. McNamara officiated at the ceremony in St. Patrick's Church on Friday evening that united Winona Ann Butler and Campbell R. Thomson. Autumn flowers decorated the church for the occasion.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Butler, 1534 Hampshire Road, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thomson, 9015 McLellan Street. Mr. Butler gave his daughter in marriage.

During the ceremony, Mrs. V. Barnes sang "Ave Maria" accompanied by organist, Mrs. H. Gill.

The petite bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of shimmering silk satin styled with lily-point sleeves, basque bodice and full hoop skirt that swept back to a bustle effect and flowing chapel train.

Lace, sparkling with iridescent sequins enhanced the Sabrina neckline. Tiara of crystals held the silk illusion veil. White roses were in the cascade bouquet.

Dainty bows highlighted the bell skirts of the silk taffeta gowns in American Beauty Rose tone chosen by maid of honor, Miss Leona Moir; and bridesmaids, Miss Maria Lawrence, Dawson Creek, and Miss Bernadeta Duncan.

All had bandeaux en tone and carried pale pink carnations that picked up shades in their gowns.

Glen Hill was best man and ushers were Roger Olsen and David Butler.

Albert Oldnall proposed to the bride at a reception in the Carlton Club. Pink roses topped a three-tier wedding cake that centred head table.

As her going-away ensemble the new Mrs. Thomson chose a wool sheath dress in burnished gold shade, brown accessories and topcoat of wool mohair in rust tone. An orchid corsage was pinned on her coat lapel.

On their return the newlyweds will make their home at 1975 Lee Avenue.

Members of St. George's AYPA group, from the left, Ann Perrans, Jill Orton and Cynthia Smith, print signs for annual bazaar of St. George the Martyr Church, to be held on Saturday, November 18, in the parish hall, Maynard Road, Cadboro Bay, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be stalls of gifts, aprons, home cooking, candy, books, superfluities, a fun stall and a fish pond. Afternoon tea and continuous refreshments will be served.

MANY STALLS

Convening stalls were: Home cooking, Mrs. Thomas Halme, superintendent No. 61 division; aprons, Mrs. John T. Whalen, superintendent No. 148 division; superfluities, tombolas, knitted goods and novelties, Mrs. Humble, superintendent No. 176 division; Christmas novelties, Mrs. B. D'Alroy, superintendent No. 210 division; candy, Mrs. B. Jarvis, superintendent No. 254C division, and plants and flowers, Mrs. D. Mather, division No. 210. Members of various divisions assisted.

Mrs. G. Howard convened stall of pet beds, made by her husband. She was assisted by fellow members of No. 176 division.

Nosegays of miniature chrysanthemums decorated individual tables for tea convened by Mrs. Ed. Thomas, auxiliary president. Serviteurs were Mrs. W. Harrison, Mrs. H. Hill, Mrs. S. Wright, Mrs. R. Barnes and Mrs. J. Simpson. Tea tickets were handled by Miss E. Browning, and kitchen helpers were Mrs. C. McGinnis, Mrs. J. Woods, Mrs. A. Jarvie, Mrs. A. Cook, Mrs. Wells and Mrs. O. Campbell.

One almost expected to hear the joyous sound of Christmas carols at headquarters of St. John Ambulance Brigade on Saturday afternoon when seasonal garlands and huge silver balls welcomed guests to the annual bazaar and tea. Decorations were by Mrs. F. Hurley, Nursing Division No. 176. Sum of $800 was realized.

Mrs. George R. Pearkes opened the affair, being introduced by Mrs. O. F. Lawrence, corps superintendent. Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. E. Harwood, retired area superintendent.

Grandmother Sings at Wedding

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Edith Griffin, was soloist at ceremony in St. Aidan's United Church that united Gail Marie Griffin and ABAP Floyd M. Ruttan, RCN, on Friday evening. Organist was Reginald Stone.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Alan V. Griffin, 1649 Edgeware Road, and C. C. Ruttan, Engelhart, Ont., and the late Mrs. Ruttan.

White chrysanthemums and greenery decorated the church for the double-ring ceremony.

NEUTRAL BUT DETERMINED

UN Chief Promises To 'Call His Shots'

By TOM HOPE

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The man chosen as interim secretary-general of the United Nations is a practising neutral who has sought to get along with both the Communists and the West, but only when he believed they were right.

Widow Seeks To Restore Trotsky Name

PARIS (Reuters) — The widow of Leon Trotsky, exiled Russian revolutionary assassinated in Mexico in 1940, was quoted here today as saying she was ready to go to Moscow to help re-establish her husband's "good name."

The Fourth International, which groups Trotskyites throughout the world — Saturday published a letter Mrs. Nathalie Sedova-Trotsky sent to Moscow calling for a public revision of the trial of her husband and her son, Leon Sedov, and an investigation into the assassination.

She also asked for news of her other son, Serge Sedov, arrested in 1935.

Mrs. Trotsky, in an interview in the independent evening newspaper France-Soir, said that after Premier Khrushchev's denunciation of Stalinist crimes at the recent Communist Party congress, "No one can doubt any longer that my husband was assassinated on Stalin's orders."

She said she would willingly go to Moscow to testify if there was a public investigation into her husband's death. She still hoped to find Serge alive, though the last news she had received of him was in 1937.

Holstein Named High Producer

DUNCAN — A Holstein cow owned by G. Albert Baumgart, Cowichan Station, and fittingly named "Star," was high producer of 46 dairy cattle which completed Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association production records in October.

During a 305-day period she gave 17,375 pounds of milk and 652 pounds of butterfat, according to DHIA supervisor Jack Woof.

Winner of a free sack of feed given by Cowichan Creamery for the owner of the entry with highest production among first lactation heifers was Ate De Wit, Westholme.

His Jersey heifer was only one year and 10 months old when she began her record of 8,713 pounds of milk and 463 pounds of butterfat.

Bylaw Hearing

The public will have an opportunity to express opinions on a subdivision control bylaw when it comes before council Nov. 14 for first and second reading, according to Reeve R. Gordon Lee of Central Saanich.

The bylaw was prepared by the Capital Region Planning Board.

V.I. ROUNDUP

One Drowned, One Missing

NANAIMO—The body of an elderly man was found floating in Nanaimo Harbor Sunday. Police identified him as Thomas O. Mason, 87, who was last seen Saturday morning in downtown Nanaimo.

Mason owned a fishboat and regularly visited the other fishermen along the waterfront.

TOFINO—Police are seeking a 68-year-old man whose overturned canoe was found near here Saturday.

RCMP said Charlie Thomas of the Opitsate Indian Reserve is presumed to have drowned.

He was last seen Friday night in Tofino as he embarked in his canoe for the reserve, about a mile from here.

NANAIMO—Guy Fawkes Day was celebrated here Saturday with a giant bonfire of railroad ties in Centennial Park, and in burning by firemen of an old house on the outskirts of Chinatown.

The annual observance was one day early because Nov. 5, anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot of 1605, fell on Sunday. Nanaimo is one of the few Canadian cities to celebrate the day.

NANAIMO—Recreation Minister Earle Woodward and Mayor Pete Maffeo will be asked to become honorary president and vice-president, respectively, of the Nanaimo Fish and Game Protective Association.

The fish and game club has decided to ask the provincial government to proclaim a province-wide "safe hunter week" next year.

CHEMINAUS—North Cowichan council plans construction of a lakeshore trail at Fuller Lake Park here as part of the annual winter work program.

The 14-acre park has a paved parking lot and bass in the lake have been replaced by trout.

DUNCAN—John Worthington, Cobble Hill, was fined $10 in police court here Thursday for failing to stop at a railway crossing while a train was approaching.

Worthington was the driver of a car which was struck by an E and N Railway freight train Sept. 27 at Koksilah. He and his wife suffered minor injuries, but their three-year-old daughter, Debbie, suffered serious head injuries and was taken to Victoria for treatment. She now is recovering at home.

PORT RENFREW—San Juan breakwater committee, formed of fishing, towing, lumbering and mining interests operating in the vicinity of Port Renfrew, have asked the federal government to build a model of the harbor to assist in designing a breakwater for the port.

The harbor, four miles long and one mile wide, is exposed to westerly winds and is not safe for shipping for most of the winter.

GANGES—Officers of Salt Spring Island Chrysanthemum Club are Austin K. Wilson, re-elected president; Waldo Rogers, vice-president; Mrs. M. Sober, secretary; Mrs. R. W. Bradley, treasurer; P. G. James, show convenor and horticultural supervisor; Mrs. A. K. Wilson and Mrs. T. J. Sharland, show secretaries; Mrs. M. Atkins, publicity director.

GANGES—Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce will ask provincial health authorities to exert control over sewage disposal here.

Action was taken after Arthur Young reported on a survey made by the health department at the request of the chamber.

Specific demands were the checking of individual sewage tanks in a marshy area and the compelling of owners of faulty drainage systems to put them in order.

A sewage system outlined by Mr. Young was dismissed as unfair, since only 20 per cent of the proposed taxable area is affected by the sewage problem. C. R. Horel, chairman, said action is necessary and that eventually an alternative to the proposed system must be found. The lake have been replaced by trout.

Call for Restraint At Fish Conference

TOKYO (AP)—The International North Pacific Fisheries Commission opened its eighth annual meeting today to discuss conservation of salmon and herring in the North Pacific.

The America-Canada-Japan commission is holding its six-day conference at the foreign ministry here. The three Pacific countries signed a conservation convention in 1953.

The Soviet Union sends observers to the meetings. U.S. Interior Secretary Stewart Udall led off with an opening speech stressing the need for conservation measures to prevent depletion of Bristol Bay red salmon resources.

He said the decreasing runs clearly called for "restraint." Though he did not specifically say so, his call was obviously directed at Japan.

George R. Clark, deputy minister of fisheries, heads the Canadian delegation.

Japan, on one hand, and the United States with Canada on the other side of the Pacific, have held divergent views on the necessity, extent and areas for fishery conservation.

Japanese Agriculture Minister Ichiro Kono told the commission Japan would continue to co-operate with the other countries concerned "in respect to conservation and maximum utilization of fishery resources."

IMPROVEMENT CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

Tofino Road Condition Protested

TOFINO—A campaign has been launched by Tofino Chamber of Commerce for improvements to the West Coast Road.

In a letter to Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, the chamber stated that "according to figures released by your department, an average of about 500 vehicles per day used this road through the summer. The condition of the road during this time was reported to have been extremely rough."

"We believe that the industrial development and tourist attractions of this area warrant a better road, and once again we request that the Alberni-Tofino Road be completed to highway standards and other company vehicles during working hours each day."

The road, opened in 1959, was restricted to logging trucks and other company vehicles during working hours each day.

60 Lost In Ship Sinking

Tanker Explodes In Mediterranean

TUNIS (AP) — The 7,129-ton Scottish tanker Clan Keith exploded and sank in the storm-tossed Mediterranean off the north Tunisian coast early today and only eight of her 68 European officers and Pakistani crew members were known to have survived.

"We have little hope for the others," said the Tunis radio co-ordinating centre. It said eight men were plucked alive from the heavy seas and that one rescue vessel radioed that she recovered "two bodies, their clothes torn and faces bartered."

Several ships in the area reported finding debris from the Clan Keith, including a heavily damaged lifeboat.

Five rescue vessels of the French naval base at Bizerte criss-crossed the choppy waters north of the island of Galite where the explosion occurred. British warships sailed from Malta to join the search for possible additional survivors.

CAPTAIN SURVIVES

The ship's owners reported the survivors included the Clan Keith skipper, Capt. Pitts Jackson.

The Tunis radio centre said five of the survivors were picked up by the British freighter Durham Trader.

Radio messages intercepted in Tunis said the Clan Keith exploded about midnight and sank in several minutes. A storm had battered the North African coast during the night.

The 19-year-old ship had been chartered to the British India Company and had a crew of 21 Europeans and 47 Pakistanis, her owners, Clan Line Steamers of Glasgow, announced.

'Biblical Deluge' Hits Athens

ATHENS (AP) — Torrential rains, hail and hurricane-force winds lashed the Athens area for four hours early today, leaving behind 34 dead, at least 50 missing, 300 injured and 3,000 homeless.

The storm, the worst in memory, crumbled houses and turned streets into rivers more than eight feet deep.

Hail stones as big as golf balls added to the havoc.

The storm broke about 3 a.m. and left floods that stranded thousands of persons in cars and on commuter trains as they tried to go to work.

"A biblical deluge," said one senior police officer directing rescue operations.

The interior ministry said 700 houses were damaged and most were left uninhabitable.

Hundreds of houses and shops were flooded in the Athens area. Many of the dead were drowned by floods that poured through their ground-floor bedrooms.

Many of the victims were in houses that collapsed under the force of the torrential rains and powerful winds.

Hundreds were marooned in cars and buses as water eight feet deep was reported in some places.

MOBSTERS BATTLE IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP) — Protection racket violence erupted again Sunday night as the underworld made an apparent attempt to kill Rene Bigrault, 30, due to appear in court on attempted murder charges arising from a previous St. Lawrence Boulevard shooting.

Police said witnesses to a wild gun battle in the Rodeo Cafe on the boulevard said a group of men approached Bigrault, on ball since Aug. 15, and threatened him.

A scuffle began and within moments, waiters and patrons were scurrying for cover as shots flew. Walter Robert Robarge's head was grazed by a bullet.

The incident ended with two men chasing another down the gaudy boulevard, firing shots at him. He apparently escaped unhurt.

CORSICA VISIT

4,000 Men Guard De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI) — A massive turnout of riot police stood ready today for President Charles de Gaulle's visit to the Mediterranean island of Corsica — considered his most hazardous journey to date.

Four thousand riot police sent from Marseilles were to form the backbone of the security screen when de Gaulle drives by car across the bandit-infested mountains and speaks in the cities.

He is to spend a day and a half on Corsica before flying back to the mainland to visit the region of Toulon and Marsella.

The main reason de Gaulle's 15th "meet-the-people" tour of French provinces is considered so risky is that many of Corsica's 250,000 inhabitants have close family ties with the settlers of Algeria.

Furthermore, the excitable character of the Corsican Islanders increased the possibility of an assassination attempt, security sources said.

The test-ban negotiations were broken off last September as the Soviet Union completed preparations for the current test series which ended the 1958 moratorium. Participants in the Geneva talks were the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

Shortly before the vote Tsarapkin told the committee:

"Everyone now understands that the United States pursues one goal — to tie the hands of the Soviet Union and to give a preponderance to the United States in the nuclear weapons field. The United States follows a policy directly opposed to disarmament. Their goal is not disarmament but nuclear and general disarmament."

The moratorium proposal was approved by the political committee last week by an overwhelming vote, but it has been brushed aside both by the Soviet Union and the Western powers.

The key difference between the U.S.-British resolution and the Afro-Asian plan is that the preponderance,

Already Active — RCMP Chief

TORONTO (CP) — RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvison said today American crime syndicates are moving into Canada.

"The American syndicates are showing an increasing interest in Canada and are moving to take over direct control of some existing criminal activities," he said in a speech to the Canadian Club of Toronto.

"They are already active in the field of gambling, narcotics trafficking, counterfeiting and in the protection racket."

"There are many indications, and there is some evidence, that the syndicates have already started to treat Canada as an area for expansion of their activities."

Commissioner Harvison said it is "urgent" that the crime problem be tackled before crime syndicates become established in this country.

"Action now might prevent crime and suffering and loss of life and heavy financial losses in the future," he said. "But it is important that such preventive action as is possible be planned and taken quickly."

If gambling could be stopped

HARVISON

"time for action"

or greatly reduced in Canada, he said, "there is room for doubt that the syndicates would be interested to the point of taking over direct control."

Bookies Take 10-15 Per Cent Profit

Already, he added, gambling in Canada involves "many millions of dollars" with a view to bringing forward recommendations to legislators.

Commissioner Harvison said the gangster syndicates — "multi-million dollar operations, tightly organized from the upper ranks right down to the lowliest hoodlum" — are casting eyes on Canada because of stepped-up activities against them in the U.S., the end of tourist trade to Cuba and the shut-down of gambling and other vice establishments in Cuba.

He said experts in the field report that crime syndicates are more powerful now than they were in the heyday of the prohibition years.

Bosses Protected by Lower Echelons

"Most of the overlords have criminal records earned during their early hoodlum days, but except for a few, they have been free of prosecution for many years. They are protected and hidden by so many echelons of lower rank that they seem almost untouchable."

The commissioners said the syndicates have replaced their old-time crime wars with business meetings of the brass.

Nehru, JFK at Odds Over Ending A-Tests

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India flew here today to open a series of talks with President Kennedy on world problems and on the divergent views of the United States and India toward nuclear testing.

Nehru is expected to press Kennedy for a moratorium on nuclear firings as a first step to a treaty banning use of nuclear weapons.

On this Kennedy and Nehru are in opposition.

Nehru said Sunday night in New York that "I'm dead against any nuclear testing, whatever happens." He reiterated that the important thing is to stop all tests now without waiting for a treaty "with inspection and controls and all that."

The U.S. position is that a non-nuclear treaty requires agreements for international inspection to make it effective.

2,500 NABBED IN S. AFRICA POLICE RAIDS

PRETORIA (Reuters) — Some 2,500 whites and non-whites were arrested in weekend police raids on criminal haunts across South Africa, police disclosed today.

Some 90 Negro men and women appeared in court here today and a number were fined up to $117 each with the alternative of 90 days' imprisonment for infringing laws on liquor, drunkenness and possession of illegal weapons and stolen goods.

Fallout Warning

TOKYO (UPI) — The central meteorological agency cautioned Japanese today to cover open wells and filter rain and river water used for drinking as the result of a record level of radioactive fallout from Soviet nuclear tests.

The agency said there was no immediate danger to health but that simple precautions should be taken in case the level of fallout continued high.

UN A-Test Resolution Doomed in Advance

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The main United Nations political committee today approved a United States-British resolution calling for immediate resumption of East-West negotiations on a treaty to ban nuclear bomb testing.

The vote in the 103-nation committee was 67 to 11 with 16 countries abstaining. The Soviet bloc, Mongolia and Cuba cast the negative votes.

But the proposed talks appeared doomed in advance. Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said:

"There will never be such negotiations."

He insisted there was only one way to halt nuclear weapons testing that was through an agreement on complete and general disarmament.

WESTERN ANSWER

The approved draft was the Western answer to an Afro-Asian resolution, now awaiting final action by the General Assembly. This called for new voluntary moratorium on tests.

The moratorium proposal was approved by the political committee last week by an overwhelming vote, but it has been brushed aside both by the Soviet Union and the Western powers.

Whether the homes were totally destroyed, or merely damaged, was not known immediately.

The scene was the city's western portion, in mountains separating Los Angeles from the San Fernando Valley.

Such celebrities as Jack Lemmon, Marlon Brando, Mauve O'Hara, Greer Garson, Steve Cochran reside there.

NO DECISION ON QUEEN'S GHANA VISIT

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today it still has to be decided whether Queen Elizabeth will keep her engagement to visit Ghana.

Commonwealth Relations Secretary Duncan Sandy flew to Accra during the weekend to assess the situation from the standpoint of the Queen's personal safety after bombs were exploded under the Ghana independence arch and a statue of President Kwame Nkrumah.

"I am still awaiting a report from him (Sandy)," Macmillan told the House of Commons in response to questions.

At the moment, the Queen was still scheduled to leave for Ghana Thursday.

Jeremy Thorpe, a Liberal, asked for an assurance that the Queen is of paramount importance and must take priority over any political considerations."

Moral Right' Claimed To Catch Up on West

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia has claimed "a full moral right" to test the same number of nuclear bombs as have already been exploded by the United States, Britain and France.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the Soviet Union had set off 55 announced tests prior to the present series, in which there have been 31, making a total of 86. The U.S. total, including four in the current underground series, is 157. Britain has fired 22 and France 4.

The official news agency Tass said Sunday that since Russia's nuclear tests have been fewer than the U.S., Britain and France together, the Soviet Union "has a full moral right to equalize the situation and prevent a discrepancy between the number of tests conducted by the Soviet Union and the number of tests conducted by the countries of the Western military bloc."

Heck with these imports. What's wrong with our own Canadian criminals?

Tain't hard t' ferget it's November if y' don't look at th' calendar.

Fire Kills 3 Children On Reserve

(Compiled from CP)

SQUAMISH — Three children died Sunday in a fire on an Indian reserve near Pemberton, 40 miles northeast of here.

Their father and a fourth child were brought to hospital here for treatment for burns.

Dead are Joan Pierre, six; her brother Dennis, 18 months, and sister Jang, five months.

In hospital in good condition are Dennis Pierre and his six-year-old son, Harry.

Mrs. Pierre was apparently away from the family home at the time.

Residents of the Mount Currie reserve formed a bucket brigade—but the wooden home was destroyed within minutes.

Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Gun Game Fatal

TERRACE — A ten-year-old boy was accidentally shot and killed in Terrace Saturday while he and a companion played with a .22-calibre revolver.

Dead is Stephen Mahoney, who was playing at the home of his friend when the revolver discharged and the bullet struck him above the heart.

'Society Burglar'

VANCOUVER — Police believe they have captured a "society burglar" who stole thousands of dollars worth of goods in the well-to-do and middle-class areas of Shaughnessy, Kerrisdale and Marine Drive.

They said they have recovered stolen goods that range from a $1,000 figurine to fur coats, rare goblets, paintings and fine linen.

Other furs have been traced to Ontario, they said.

The man was trapped by police answering a burglar alarm at the home of Walter C. Keorner.

Stanley Wilks appeared in police court Saturday and was remanded without plea on charges of breaking and entering and possession of house-breaking instruments.

Safety Program

VANCOUVER — British Columbia autos equipped with safety belts will soon be identified by a green triangular reflector if the British Columbia Safety Council has its way. The reflector campaign is aimed at making the province's motorists more safety conscious and to promote public recognition of safety belts.

Killed by Gas

VANCOUVER — The caretaker of an apartment block and his wife died Sunday of carbon monoxide poisoning caused by an improperly installed gas heater.

The deaths of Sidney Norman, about 69, and his wife Orphie, about 54, were the first in about five years from natural gas appliances, said provincial gas inspector A. G. Keaneen.

The gas inspector said the heater was not completely connected to a vent, allowing the spread of fumes.

A tenant of the block said Mr. Norman, a retired plumber, installed the heater in his apartment Friday.

Raids in Kootenays

NELSON — Six men were taken into custody in RCMP raids on a Doukhobor Free-domite colony near here during the weekend.

RCMP later charged John Mazoroff of Krestova with possession of explosives with intent to damage property.

Five others were held for questioning.

Police searched several homes in the Krestova settlement in a stepped-up investigation of widespread arson and bombing terrorism in the Kootenay district of southeastern British Columbia.

Earlier last week, two other Krestova residents were also charged with unlawful possession of explosives.

RCMP said Sunday that further arrests are expected.

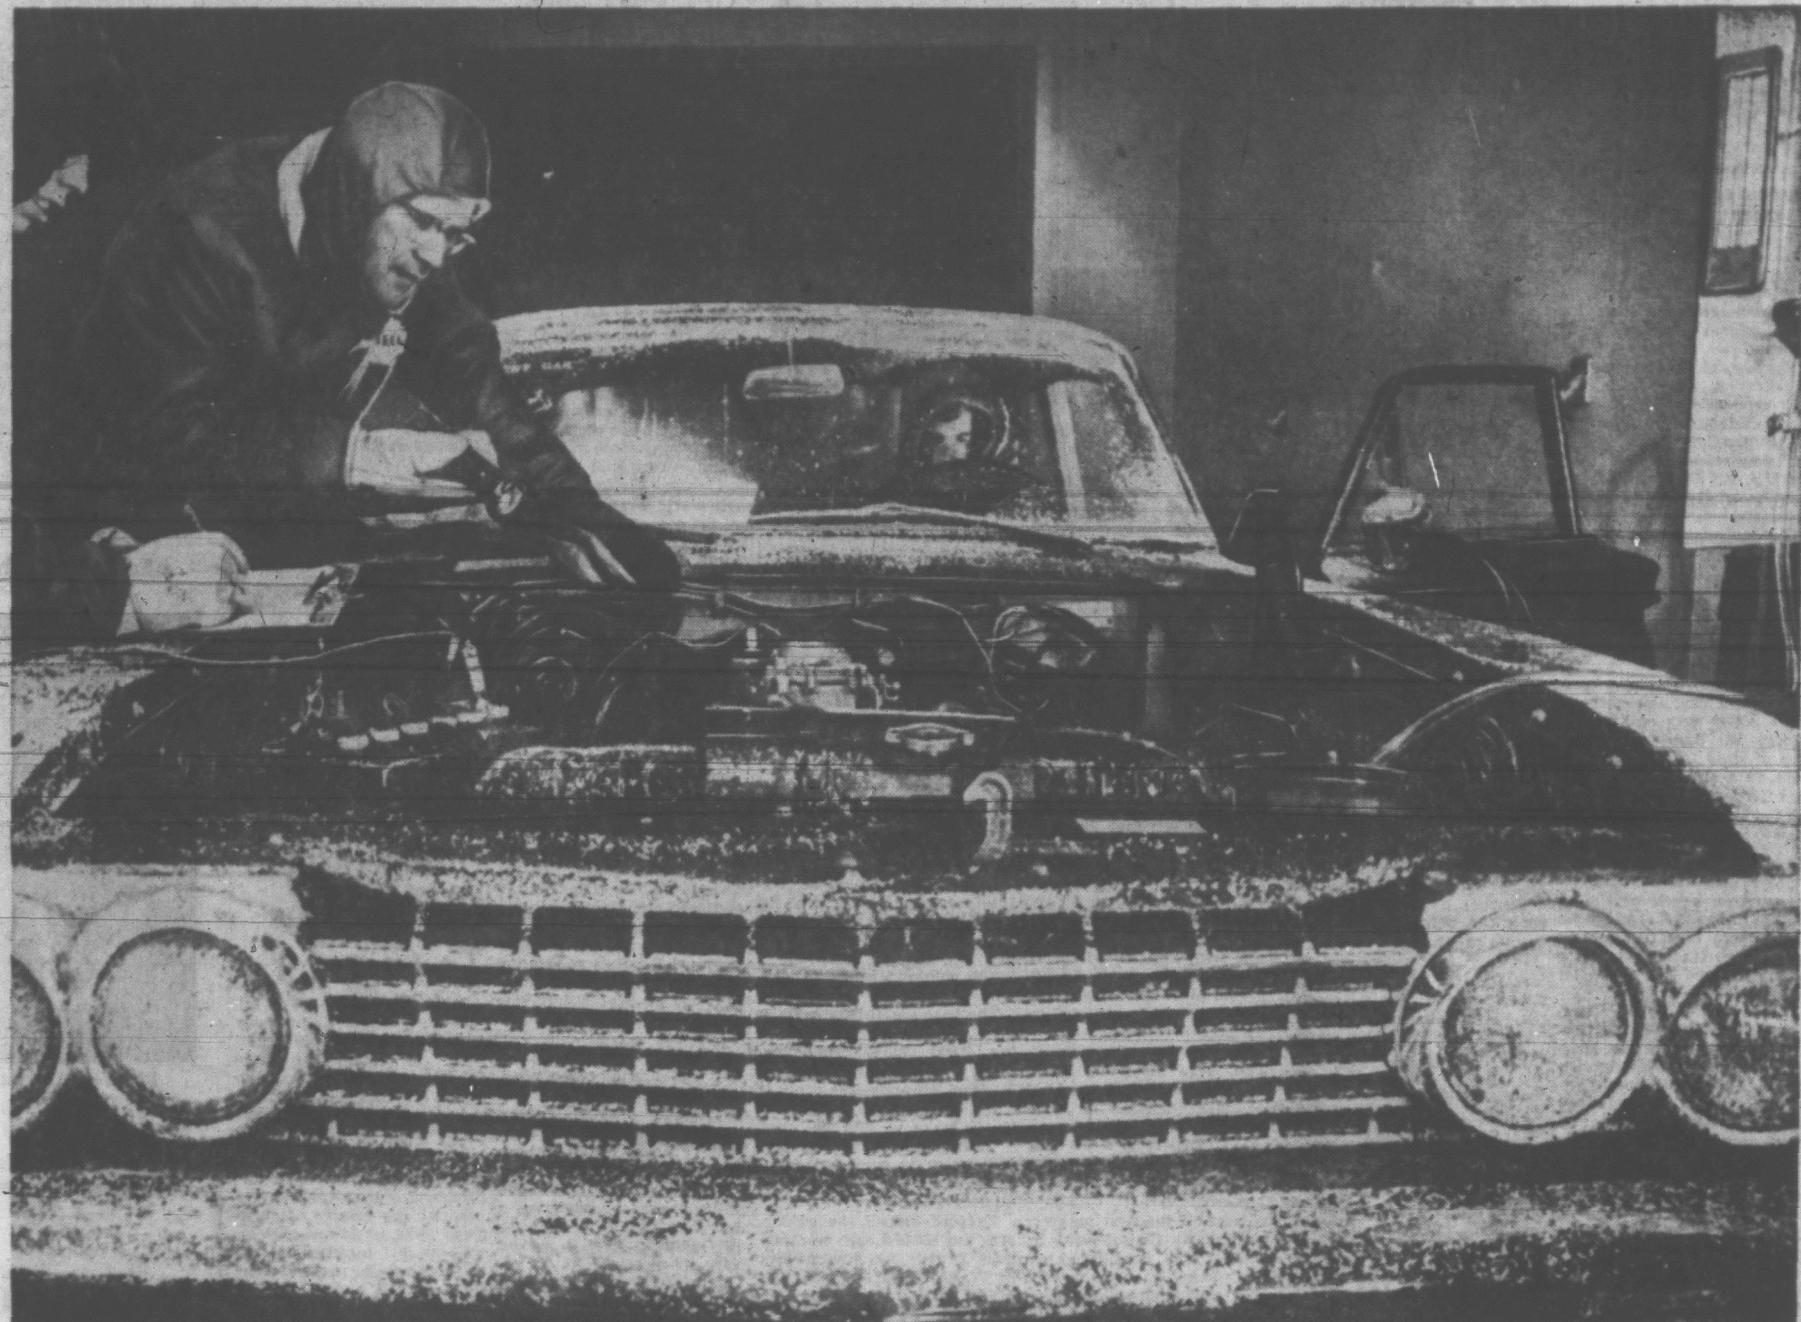

Tax Charge

VANCOUVER — A director of the Vancouver Lions football club and former junior football coach has been charged with four counts of income tax evasion.

Charges against Ranjit S. Mattu, manager of Hemfir Lumber, specify he made false or deceptive statements on tax returns covering the years 1955 to 1958.

The Crown alleges Mattu omitted from tax returns for those years certain income arising from lumber operations.

Mattu is a current Lions director and former coach of the Vancouver Blue Bombers junior football team, which won the 1947 Canadian junior football title.

Shell scientists test Super Shell's special Winter Blend in a new all-weather laboratory. Temperature and humidity can be varied to duplicate weather conditions from Halifax to E.C.

B.C. WINTER BLEND

Shell scientists adjust three of Super Shell's nine ingredients to create a special winter formula for top performance in damp West Coast weather

Shell stations are now pumping a blend of Super Shell's nine ingredients especially formulated to give you faster starts and quicker warm-ups on cold mornings. The dosage of two ingredients (butane and mixed pentanes) has increased. A third ingredient is added to cut stalling caused by carburetor frosting*. Read how Super Shell's B.C. Winter Blend helps make cold weather driving more pleasant.

A GASOLINE that gives you top performance in summer can make your car difficult to start and balky to drive when the temperature drops.

It's a surprising fact that your carburetor can frost up even when the temperature is a mild 45°. Carburetor frosting happens most often on chilly, wetish days when there's a lot of moisture in the air.

Here's why: Your carburetor gulps great breaths of air to mix with gasoline—actually 14 parts of air to one part fuel vapor.

As gasoline vaporizes a curious thing happens. It pulls heat out of the air. The inside of your carburetor is soon as cold as your refrigerator. The moisture in the air freezes and clings to the metal carburetor walls like the frost that forms in your refrigerator.

Under normal running conditions you won't be aware of the frost, but when you close the throttle, e.g. at a red light, it can choke off the air supply and your engine stalls. The anti-froster in Super Shell fights this maddening phenomenon by coating carburetor walls so that ice can't stick to them. This drastically reduces your chances of an icing stall whenever the temperature drops to 45° or lower.

2. Butane content increased to give you quick starts

If you have trouble starting your car in cold weather it may be that your gasoline is not vaporizing as promptly as it should. Until it starts to vaporize and mix with the air in your carburetor, gasoline has a hard time "fring" your engine.

Shell scientists fight this problem with an extra dose of butane. Butane is highly volatile—which means that it changes easily from a liquid to a vapor. The change is the same sort of thing that happens when water boils and turns into steam. Butane actually boils and vaporizes at 31.1°F.—lower than the temperature inside your refrigerator. It is so eager to get going Shell has to store it under pressure until it is tamed by mixing with other ingredients.

This remarkable ingredient increases the volatility of Super Shell dramatically. Fires your engine in a hurry. Takes a strain off your battery—and also off your patience.

3. A bigger dose of mixed pentanes for fast warm-ups on cold days

Starting is just part of the story. Cold engines struggle and sputter annoyingly until they warm up. This wastes gasoline.

That is why Shell scientists increase the dose of mixed pentanes in Super Shell's B.C. Winter Blend—to speed up the delivery of heat to your engine. Shell makes mixed pentanes by subjecting petroleum to terrific heat, transforming heavier hydrocarbons into lighter, quick-burning molecules. Blended into Super Shell, these quick-burning molecules work much like kindling in a log fire. They ignite easily and everything gets going quickly. Your engine warms up faster, gets over that hesitant, balky feeling in a hurry.

Fill up with special B.C. Winter Blend

Make sure you're ready for winter driving with a tankful of Super Shell's B.C. Winter Blend.

Its nine-ingredient formula is adjusted to help make the difference between balky, sputtering performance and a fast, smooth getaway. Don't forget all the other ingredients in today's Super Shell (See box). They're working every day you drive, every season of the year, to give you top performance.

The 9 ingredients in Super Shell and what they do to give your car top performance

#1 is TCP† for power, mileage, and longer plug life.

#2 is mixed pentanes for fast warm-ups.

#3 is anti-knock mix to resist all kinds of knock.

#4 is gum preventive to keep carburetors clean inside.

#5 is butane for quick starts on cold mornings.

#6 is "car-cracked" gasoline—for extra power.

#7 is a carburetor defroster (added in cold weather.)

#8 is heavy alkanes to help control "high-speed knock."

#9 is Platformate for extra mileage.

Vital Trade Problems Get Airing

NEW YORK (AP) — The government and a big segment of business directed sharp attention to the vital problems of foreign trade last week.

More than 2,000 business men engaged in international commerce gathered here for the National Foreign Trade Convention.

They heard the Kennedy administration advocate a foreign economic policy of open competitive trading for the entire non-Communist world. And they voiced demands that the U.S. act to eliminate foreign restrictions against its exporters.

On the domestic scene major interest was centred on the automobile industry, where the United Auto Workers Union and Chrysler Corp. teetered on the brink of a strike until settlement was achieved Thursday.

The administration's proposal for a new international trade policy was outlined by George W. Ball, under-secretary of state for economic affairs, in a speech to the Foreign Trade Convention.

Want More Power

He said the president should be given power to make "much broader and more ambitious bargains on behalf of United States industry." And, he added there must be a basis for an open trading world extending beyond the European Common Market.

Over time operations by General Motors and Ford, catching up after the strike shutdowns, kept auto production at a high level this week. Output was estimated at 152,000 passenger cars, second this year, only to last week's 158,136.

Steel output last week posted an increase after three weekly declines. The total of 2,057,000 tons was 0.7 per cent above the previous week. This brought the total for the year to 78,721,000 tons, down 8.3 per cent from the comparable 1960 period.

A flood of corporate earnings reports gushed from directors' meetings. Profits exceeded those of the 1960 third quarter, showing the results of recovery from the recession. But results were spotty.

Among companies reporting were two of the biggest in the U.S.—Ford and U.S. Steel. Ford announced earnings of $79,800,000, highest since the firm became publicly owned in 1936. U.S. Steel's profit inched downward to $51,700,000 from $52,400,000 in the 1960 third quarter.

New Financing Plan By Canadian Dyno

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian Dyno Mines Ltd. says in its annual report for the year ended July 31 that it plans to secure a bank loan to redeem all its 6 per cent first mortgage sinking fund bonds outstanding at the earliest possible date.

The bonds, dated May 1, 1957, and due May 1, 1963, originally totalled $9,500,000 and at July 31, $5,203,500 was outstanding.

Net profit on the year's operations was $555,184.

Trans Mountain Deliveries Up

VANCOUVER (CP)—Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line Company reports total deliveries of crude oil for the month of October averaged 166,632 barrels a day, compared with 105,677 barrels a day during the same period in 1960.

Deliveries through the system for the month of November are expected to average 187,000 barrels daily.

Fire Marshal Orders Probe After Ninth Mystery Blaze

'We Are Convinced It's an Arsonist'

B.C. Fire Marshal Basil Nixon today ordered a full investigation into a series of mysterious fires which have terrorized residents of the city's Cecilia Road district.

The action came after the ninth fire — all believed the work of a pyromaniac — broke out at 9:17 p.m. Sunday in a woodshed behind the home of W. K. Grieve, 3119 Napier Lane.

The lane is a continuation of Cecilia Road and runs down to Burnside Road.

Flames were noticed in the 'More of a Neighborhood Deal'

"I am inclined to think it is more of a neighborhood deal than anything else, but this will not stop us from conducting a complete investigation using all possible channels."

Mr. Nixon said Inspector Johnson of the Vancouver office is on his way to Victoria today.

"He will meet with Police Chief Blackstock and Fire Chief Bayliss and work with them until the thing is cleared up," he said.

He added that two more inspectors will be sent from Vancouver Tuesday to help the investigation.

'If I Get Him, I'll Kill Him'

"If I ever get my hands on the guy I'll kill him," he said. "I have a wife who has to take heart pills now, and four children."

The Kransevic family were threatened recently by a man who said he would burn their house down. They had refused him a jug of wine from their basement when he came to their door.

If the woodshed fire hadn't been caught quickly it could have burned the Krassevic's hedge and lit their house.

"I am sure that it is my family this madman is after," Mr. Kransevic said.

Mrs. Grieve would not talk to reporters this morning. She would only say the police had all the details.

But Police Chief John Blackstock was reluctant to discuss the fires.

When asked what he planned to do about the growing menace, he refused to say.

"If I tell you then everyone,

Sunday night's blaze was set in one half of the woodshed. The shed has a dividing partition in the middle. On one side was wood and papers, and on the other a can of stove oil.

Mysteriously the flames emanated from the paper and wood, rather than the more inflammable oil.

Only slight damage was done to the woodshed, which is just beyond the property of Stefan Kransevic, 478 Cecilia Road.

Showing strains of the tension, Mr. Kransevic watched firemen extinguish the ninth fire.

225 'JOIN UP'

Survival Role Beats the Dole

Drawing khaki tunics and army boots is better than drawing unemployment insurance to some of the 225 men lined up at quartermasters' stores in Bay Street Armory.

This course ends Dec. 15 and the second of four such courses being offered commences Jan. 8, 1962.

The recruits who have joined the militia for six weeks are the first Greater Victoria men to enlist in a new national survival training program.

They drew stores and were documented this morning; some saw orientation films; others stood in little groups waiting for the next order.

300 QUOTA

Applications were to be taken up to noon in hopes that the 300 quota might be nearly filled.

The armory will be their headquarters while they are trained as part of a 100,000-man core skilled to survive a nuclear war.

Many are youths who have known only the cold war. They have finished school but can't find work.

(See Times reporter Ab Kent's second article on Canada's civil defence program on page 6 of this edition.)

Active Bidding On 13 Properties At City Tax Sale

Thirteen properties were sold for back taxes at City Hall to-day and active bidding gave the city a tentative margin of $9,450 profit.

This group includes veterans of the Second World War who feel that being forewarned is forearmed. Some have been given leave from their jobs in order to take the course.

Average age appeared to be about 30.

"I'd rather do this than draw unemployment insurance," one of the younger ones said.

$260 IN PAY

As militiamen for six weeks they will draw about $260, compared with an average $180 under the unemployment insurance scheme.

"I wasn't eligible for unemployment insurance until December and I have a wife and two kids," another recruit said.

"This might be useful knowledge," said an older one.

"I want to join the service corps after this," said a 21-year-old.

COMMENTS

"I may join the militia afterward. It depends on the course" ... "I must have been out of my mind for five minutes" ... "I'm waiting to get married to a rich widow," went the comments.

All who complete the course have the chance to join the militia, provided they pass its somewhat higher qualifications.

He says zoning and planning are necessary to curb rising costs for municipal services.

He noted that in 1941 there were 14,000 people in Saanich while today the population stood at 48,000.

By 1975, he added, the population would be about 75,000 with an additional 10,000 cars.

"Planning and zoning policies are for the protection of taxpayers," he said. "Naturally, they are not too popular with the fly-by-night operator."

Coun. Murphy three years ago was in favor of amalgamation with Victoria.

While amalgamation is not a plank in his platform, he still thinks the intelligent development of Greater Victoria and Saanich Peninsula demands a metropolitan form of government or amalgamation.

But he said it should be up to the provincial government to prepare an amalgamation formula and order it adopted.

"In the meantime I recommend a sincere study by local municipalities of a metropolitan form of government," he said.

Coun. Passmore, who has served 20 years on Saanich council, is cool towards planning and zoning and opposed to any form of amalgamation — present or future.

"Planners' recommendations should be subject to hard study and ought not to be accepted as gospel," he said.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Will you kindly publish what area is covered by the Peace River Block and how did it acquire the name "block"? J.D.C.

A. The term "Peace River Block" refers to the 3,500,000 acres of land transferred to the dominion by the province in 1883 as compensation for the lands alienated by B.C. out of the 40-mile C.P.R. railway belt, in view of the established settlement in the area on the mainland where the railway was to be constructed, under the terms of union. The land was returned to the province in 1927. The area extends 35 miles north and south of the Peace River and 74 miles west of the Alberta border. It includes Dawson Creek, Fort St. John and Pouce Coupe. The word "block" itself has no legal significance and is purely descriptive.

Blue Angels Ready to Fly For Centenary

The Blue Angels flight demonstration team would like to make amends for Saturday's split-second flypast by putting on a full air show in the Victoria area for the centenary in 1962.

This could be done, according to Lt. Cmdr. W. R. Meyering, information officer at Whidbey Island, if a request is made to navy headquarters

"I think it would be terrific, and attract a lot of tourists," he said.

Lt.-Cmdr. Meyering expressed the navy's regrets that several thousand Victorians were disappointed by the brevity of the show.

"I was disappointed, too," he said. "A lot of people did a lot of work on this, including you people on the Times, the mayor, the flag officer, and a lot of us at Whidbey. Messages bounced back and forth between here and Washington and Pensacola, and it was just hardly worth it."

He could not explain why a 10-minute flight had been promised. "I thought they'd make at least a couple of circles," he said. "But I talked to the flight leader later, and he said there wasn't enough time or fuel for more than a quick fly-over."

Victoria's winter employment problem will be no worse than last year and possibly a little better according to the indications from the current relief roll.

City welfare administrator William Hooson said today about 180 names are on the assistance to unemployed employables register.

"That's no worse than last year at this time and I think there's a chance the picture might turn out a little better. Last year we hit a peak of 300 names in the February-March period."

Mr. Hooson said potential job prospects on the mainland may have "siphoned off" a number of Victoria unemployed. He also said welfare administration methods have been "tightened up."

There was no perceptible record of fallout here from the 50-plus megaton bomb exploded by Russia Oct. 30. A few days prior to the big blast, however, the level climbed to 10 times that of the last two months.

WEEKEND, 16 CENTSMOBTERS BATTLE IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP) — Protection racket violence erupted again Sunday night as the underworld made an apparent attempt to kill René Bigault, 30, due to appear in court on attempted murder charges arising from a previous St. Lawrence Boulevard shooting.

Police said witnesses to a wild gun battle in the Rodeo Cafe on the boulevard said a group of men approached Bigault, on bail since August, and threatened him. A scuffle began and within moments, waiters and patrons were scurrying for cover as shots flew. Walter Robert Robe's head was grazed by a bullet.

The incident ended with two men chasing another down the gaudy boulevard, firing shots at him. He apparently escaped unhurt.

Woman Accused of Killing Immigrant

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Mrs. Maria Gutta, 30, of Fort William was charged today with non-capital murder in the rifle slaying of a 36-year-old man Friday.

Cosimo Cordi of Fort William died in a rooming house owned by Mrs. Gutta's husband when several bullets from a .303-calibre rifle were pumped into his body. The slaying occurred on the eve of a trip he was to make to Italy to bring his wife and three children to Canada.

Argentina Buys Canadian Locomotives

OTTAWA (CP) — A $14,000,000 sale of 70 diesel electric locomotives to Argentina was completed today, with the federal government agreeing to provide $12,500,000 in loans to finance the deal.

Police Clear 'Loaded' Building

TORONTO (CP) — Police today ordered the evacuation of a downtown office building after finding "enough nitro glycerine to cause a huge explosion." Police said safecrackers had been scared off before they had a chance to blow a safe.

U.S. Criminal
'Syndicates'
Invade Canada

TORONTO (CP) — RCMP Commissioner C. W. Harvison said today American crime syndicates are moving into Canada.

The American syndicates are showing an increasing interest in Canada and are moving to take over direct control of some existing criminal activities," he said in a speech to the Canadian Club of Toronto.

"They are already active in the field of gambling, narcotics trafficking, counterfeiting and in the protection racket.

"There are many indications, and there is some evidence, that the syndicates have already started to treat Canada as an area for expansion of their activities."

Commissioner Harvison said it is "urgent" that the crime problem be tackled before crime syndicates become established in this country.

"Action now might prevent crime and suffering and loss of life and heavy financial losses in the future," he said. "But it is important that such preventive action as is possible be planned and taken quickly."

If gambling could be stopped

HARVISON
...time for action'

Bookies Take 10-15 Per Cent Profit

Already, he added, gambling in Canada involves "many millions of dollars" with the criminal bookies raking off a 10 to 15 per cent profit.

"An awareness on the part of the public might bring about a falling-off in the patronage of the bookies and horse parlors, and therefore in the profits to the operators. Increased police activities against the bookies is another means by which gambling can be curbed—particularly if such police action is followed by adequate sentences.

"Another means of curbing and indeed, seriously crippling widespread gambling, lies in the cutting off the wire and telephone services that are essential to their operations. This point is being studied now by enforcement agencies with a view to bringing forward recommendations to legislators."

Commissioner Harvison said the gangster syndicates—"multi-million-dollar operations, tightly organized from the upper ranks right down to the lowliest hoodlum"—are casting eyes on Canada because of stepped-up activities against them in the U.S. the end of tourist trade to Cuba and the shut-down of gambling and other vice establishments in Cuba.

Explodes, Sinks in Mediterranean

TUNIS (AP) — The 7,129-ton Scottish tanker Clan Keith exploded and sank in the storm-tossed Mediterranean off the north Tunisian coast early today and only eight of her 68 European officers and Pakistani crew members were known to have survived.

"We have little hope for the others," said the Tunis radio co-ordinating centre. It said eight men were plucked alive from the heavy seas and that one rescue vessel radioed that she recovered "two bodies, their clothes torn and faces battered."

Several ships in the area reported finding debris from the Clan Keith, including a heavily damaged lifeboat.

Five rescue vessels of the French naval base at Bizerte cross-crossed the choppy waters north of the island of Galite where the explosion occurred.

British warships sailed from Malta to join the search for possible additional survivors.

CAPTAIN SURVIVES

The ship's owners reported the survivors included the Clan Keith skipper, Capt. Pitts Jackson.

The Tunis radio centre said five of the survivors were picked up by the British freighter Durham Trader.

Radio messages intercepted in Tunis said the Clan Keith exploded about midnight and sank in several minutes. A storm had battered the North African coast during the night.

The 19-year-old ship had been chartered to the British India Company and had a crew of 21 Europeans and 47 Pakistanis, her owners, Clan Line Steamers of Glasgow, announced.

"Send help," battalion chief Oliver Howard radioed from the centre of the blaze in Stone Canyon.

Whether the homes were totally destroyed or merely damaged, was not known immediately.

The scene was the city's western portion, in mountains separating Los Angeles from the San Fernando Valley.

Such celebrities as Jack Lemmon, Marlon Brando, Maureen O'Hara, Greer Garson, Steve Cochran reside there.

'Biblical

Hits Athens

ATHENS (AP) — Torrential rains, hail and hurricane-force winds lashed the Athens area for four hours early today, leaving behind 34 dead, at least 50 missing, 300 injured and 3,000 homeless.

The storm, the worst in memory, crumbled houses and turned streets into rivers more than eight feet deep.

Hail stones as big as golf balls added to the havoc.

The storm broke about 3 a.m. and left floods that stranded thousands of persons in cars and on commuter trains as they tried to go to work.

"A biblical deluge," said one senior police officer directing rescue operations.

The interior ministry said 700 houses were damaged and most were left uninhabitable.

Hundreds of houses and shops were flooded in the Athens area. Many of the dead were drowned by floods that poured through their ground-floor bedrooms.

Many of the victims were in houses that collapsed under the force of the torrential rains and powerful winds.

Hundreds were marooned in cars and buses as water eight feet deep was reported in some places.

NO DECISION ON QUEEN'S GHANA VISIT

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today he still has to be decided whether Queen Elizabeth will keep her engagement to visit Ghana.

Commonwealth Relations Secretary Duncan Sandys flew to Accra during the week to assess the situation from the standpoint of the Queen's personal safety after bombs were exploded under the Soviet bloc.

But the proposed talks appeared doomed in advance. Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said:

"I am still awaiting a report from him (Sandys)." Macmillan told the House of Commons in response to questions.

At the moment, the Queen was still scheduled to leave for Ghana Thursday.

Jeremy Thorpe, a Liberal, asked for an assurance "that as far as the British government is concerned the security of the Queen is of paramount importance and must take priority over any political considerations."

The approved draft was the Western answer to an Afro-Asian resolution, now awaiting final action by the General Assembly. This called for new voluntary moratorium on tests.

Nehru, JFK at Odds
Over Ending A-Tests

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India flew here today to open a series of talks with President Kennedy on world problems and on the divergent views of the United States and India toward nuclear testing.

Nehru is expected to press Kennedy for a moratorium on nuclear firings as a first step to a treaty banning use of nuclear weapons.

The U.S. position is that a non-nuclear treaty requires international inspection to make it effective.

UN Resolution
On Tests Doomed

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The main United Nations political committee today approved a United States-British resolution calling for immediate resumption of East-West negotiations on a treaty to ban nuclear bomb testing.

The vote in the 103-nation committee was 67 to 11 with 16 countries abstaining. The Soviet bloc, Mongolia and Cuba cast the negative votes.

But the proposed talks appeared doomed in advance. Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said:

"There will never be such negotiations."

He insisted there was only one way to halt nuclear weapons testing that was through an agreement on complete and general disarmament.

WESTERN ANSWER

The approved draft was the Western answer to an Afro-Asian resolution, now awaiting final action by the General Assembly. This called for new voluntary moratorium on tests.

The moratorium proposal was approved by the political committee last week by an overwhelming vote, but it has been brushed aside both by the Soviet Union and the Western powers.

The key difference between the U.S.-British resolution and the Afro-Asian plan is that the Western proposal provides for suspension of nuclear tests only under a treaty which calls for effective control and inspection.

The newly adopted measure calls on the nuclear powers to report back by March 1, 1962, on the results of the proposed negotiations.

The test-ban negotiations were broken off last September as the Soviet Union completed preparations for the current test series which ended the 1958 moratorium. Participants in the Geneva talks were the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

Shortly before the vote Tsarapkin told the committee:

"Everyone now understands that the United States pursues one goal—to tie the hands of the Soviet Union and to give the Soviet Union and the United States in the nuclear weapons field."

The United States follows a policy directly opposed to disarmament. Their goal is not disarmament but nuclear pre-eminence.

The Soviet Union has fired 22 and France 4.

The official news agency Tass said Sunday that since

Russia's nuclear tests have been fewer than the U.S., Britain and France together, the Soviet Union "has a full moral right to equalize the situation and prevent a discrepancy between the number of tests conducted by the Soviet Union and the number of tests conducted by the countries of the Western military bloc."

To Hospital Here

A hunter shot in the right side of his chest at about 11 a.m., while hunting in the Metchosin district, was dead on arrival this afternoon at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

He was rushed from the scene of the accident to hospital by a Vancouver Island Helicopters Ltd. 'copter. Pilot Robert Taylor hovered over the dangerous, side-hill site while the injured man was placed on a rack on the side of the machine, then landed on the hospital grounds.

RCMP Cpl. Bob Rogers said the name of the victim could not be revealed because there was little chance of his family being notified before late this afternoon.

It was known that he was a Victoria district man, and in his 30s.

HUNTING ALONE

He had gone hunting alone, and it was a three-man party which sent out for help after the tragedy.

It was understood that the victim's brother was one of the three men, and that neither brother had known that the other was in the vicinity at the time.

Witnesses placed the scene of the accident in the hills between Baxters Road, west of Happy Valley Road, and Sooke Road.

FIRE SIGNAL

RCMP Cpl. Rogers and Const. Bernie Dechant, with two members of the Langford Fire Department ambulance crew, went to the scene, and had a fire burning with which to signal the aircraft.

The hunter, who was believed near death at the time, was already in an ambulance litter when the 'copter arrived.

The wound had been inflicted by a rifle bullet.

Police are awaiting instructions from the coroner regarding an inquest.
